BDNA, Texas, March 15.—Invading Wharton county on the last leg of a week's campaign trip through South Texas, Lynch Davidson, candidate for governor who arrived here tonight, declared that the reception he had received marked an interest in the gubernatorial campaign beyond all recollection, considering the fact that the democratic primary was not yet four months distant. "I am perfectly satisfied at the interest manifested at such an early date," declared the former lieutenant governor. "Everywhere I have visited representative crowds have attended meetings before which I spoke, and not a single stop but what large delegations awaited me."

Lynch Davidson also pointed out that his was the first candidacy of the present race to bring out band music. "Band music," he stated, "is a certain sign of election interest. The never saw a Texas election."

McDowell Hints He May Dismiss Ouster

Possibility of dismissing the ouster suit instituted in his court against Chief of Police Walters-Covington, yesterday was hinted at by Judge McDowell of 60th district court.

Judge McDowell stated he wanted a copy of the city charter of this city to look up the amendment mentioned in defense of Chief Covington. The article in question is believed to be the amendment made to the section of the charter providing for the recall of an officer. It is there specifically stated that such a petition should contain not less than 20 per cent of the number of voters participating in the last biennial election.

The petition seeking to oust Chief Covington named but four signers.

In calling for a copy of the city's charter, Judge McDowell stated he was not familiar with it.

In referring to the petition brought against the police chief in an effort to oust him, Judge McDowell admitted he could have made a mistake.

He further admitted that he might dismiss the charge against Covington, when it came up for a hearing April 7, in his court, pending his investigation of the city charter.

Washington Co. Commissioner Faces 30 Charges

BRENNHAM, Texas, March 15.—Dr. K. J. Barnes, county commissioner of Washington county, was at liberty today on $7,500 bond following indictment by the grand jury on charges of misapplication of county funds.

Dr. Barnes was indicted on 20 felony and ten misdemeanor cases. The cases were set for trial in district court on March 31.

Dr. Barnes made a vigorous denial of the charges and stated reports that he would resign from office were unqualifiedly false.

Danny's knees were as of iron when he visited the well known lion's den compared to a pair we knew which last night we met W. Peter Hamilton, editor of the Wall Street Journal. Like a correspondence school graduate in electricity, he was in the mood to be a little bit of a show-off.

Mr. Hamilton is here today in the official party of the Kansas City Southern on tour of this part of that road's holdings. In seven-teen questions Mr. Hamilton drew out our life's history and revealed none of his own.

Mark Twain kidded him along that way twenty odd years ago in New Zealand so maybe there's yet a chance for four insignificantly.

Port Arthur may reap some benefits as the result of an inspection tour here today of a score of high officials of the Kansas City Southern railroad in their annual inspection of their road.

At least Port Arthur's slice of the pie will depend on the findings of the inspection party.

No significance, save that this is the annual inspection of the road, was to be attached to the party's visit to Port Arthur. It was said last night in the private car of the officials spotted at the K. C. S. station here.

L. F. Loree, chairman of the board of directors of the railroad, was the most talkative of the official party. President J. A. Edison, ironically remarked he had nothing to say.

"When will work start on the elevator planned here by your organization?" Mr. Edison was asked.

"I cannot say. No contracts have been let yet," he returned.

When asked how soon work would be started on the proposed "arc" near Port Neches, Mr. Edison stated it would be soon.

"What do you term soon?" he was asked. "Six months?"

"Perhaps," said he. Mr. Edison was disposed to be too talkative, so Mr. L. F. Loree, chairman of the board of directors of the organization took up the answering.

Loree Asked Questions
"What would happen?" Mr. Loree asked the interviewers. "If some super-would overnight take up the facilities of the Kansas City Southern at Port Arthur, and no human force could return them for a period of a year?"

This question was not intended to be answered so the interviewer waited the next one.

"If this would happen Port Arthur would collapse," Mr. Loree continued. "The K. C. S. and Port Arthur are mutually essential to one another."

Mutilated Body of Man Found At Texarkana

By Lured Press
TEXARKANA, Texas, March 15.—The body of an unidentified man, mutilated and charred was found today on the Dooly-Ferry Highway near here.

Both legs and arms had been burned off the corpse, and the skull was battered in.

Authorities said the man had apparently been murdered and his body placed on a pile of burning brush at the roadside.

Speculation as to whether oil might or might not again be found in Jefferson county since the boom days of Spindletop as history was being revived Saturday night with the announcement by R. E. Reid, secretary and treasurer of the Port Arthur Oil and Development company's well is setting at 537 feet in pay sand.

The well is located on the company's lease at Westbury, 24 miles northwest of Beaumont.

Tests of the well will be made this morning, Reid said.

Police officers are responsible for much of this deflation talk. In many of their utterances they insult the intelligence of the farmer.

Farmer Smarter Than Politician
"The American farmer is by far smarter than many of our politicians."

The Interstate Commerce Commission was classed as a bane in the life of national railroading.

Mr. Hamilton was asked if he recommended doing away with the I. C. C.

"Could you do away with the Ten Commandments?" the editor parried.

Rail consolidation was touched in passing by Mr. Hamilton.

"The Pennsylvania system in our country takes in some 10,000 miles or more than 200 railroads. In England 20 or 25 roads are consolidated. We are in advance of England in this respect."

Action of the city commissioners who Friday declared an emergency existed in the matter of city finance, was not thought of when the fund taken by resolution was framed.

Rainfall, excessive even to the alleged "10 per cent above normal" was one of the things the separate fund was to provide for. It was delayed yesterday afternoon by two of the only three trustees of the city charter who are still living in Port Arthur.

Transfer $10,500 Fund
Through the resolution passed by the city commission declaring an emergency existed, it was made possible for the commissioners to take $10,500 out of the contingent fund to meet the city's running expenses, already in the red over the appropriations allotted last year to the various departments.

Four of the framers of the city charter are still residing in Port Arthur today. They are A. Goldberger, Judge A. M. Rutan, Henry Lohmann and Charles Land. Land could not be reached last night for an opinion.

When asked their opinion on the city commission grabbing $10,500 of the contingent fund to meet the running expenses of the city, two of the men interviewed were unanimous in declaring their ideas of an "emergency" and those of the city commission did not coincide.

Opinions appear below:
A. M. RUTAN—Well, Mayor Mayor Logan and City Attorney Vernon Wistner were up here a few days ago to ask me the same thing.

As I remember it, the fund was set aside to take care of something in the nature of an unforeseen circumstance, the nature of the emergency to be left to a fair and honest decision of the city commission.

I would hesitate to give my opinion on the matter declaring the rainfall of 1923 to have been an emergency.

Caught Pro Agent Selling Still to 'Shiners'

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, March 15.—Federal agents were ordered not to pay any attention to cases involving liquor law violations along the Mexican border, B. C. Baldwin, a Texas ranger, former department of justice agent, told the senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty today.

Enforcement a Joke
Baldwin, who said his transfer from the border was ordered because he was "too active in stopping smuggling of goods into Mexico," declared that federal prohibition enforcement along the Mexican boundary is such a joke that he actually caught a dry agent returning a still to a bootlegger. He arrested the agent, he said, but though two grand juries have considered the matter no indictments have ever been returned. He said Daugherty's brother-in-law, a United States marshal, was consulted in this matter by the federal district attorney.

Baldwin's testimony followed a long and rather fruitless attempt by the committee to get F. C. Quinby, a New York moving picture man, to say that Jesse Smith, Daugherty's intimate friend, had obtained "protection" at Washington for several persons interested in transferring and showing the Dempsey-Carpenter fight films in violation of the law.

Movie Arrangement
All Quinby would say was that Jim Muma, an employer of E. B. McLean, Cincinnati Equine, Bill Orr, Tex. Martin, Tex. Richard and himself had an agreement whereby the films were to be made and shown under an arrangement which Quinby testified Muma outlined to him. Despite repeated efforts the committee was unable to get Quinby to say that he had been told that Jesse Smith had arranged the matter in Washington.

Paul Howland, Daugherty's counsel, brought out that the plan agreed on did not prevent Quinby being arrested and fined, though Quinby also stated that after he paid his fine he went on showing the pictures and made $75,000 in New York on them.

In other cases the same procedure was followed, Quinby said.

Baldwin's interrogation was as follows:
"You were in Del Rio, Texas, between August, 1918, and 1921?"

Juror's In Liquor Case Must Tell Court What They Talked About In Jury Room

YORK ADAMS IN NEW TRIAL PLEA

Charges Irregularity Despite Judge's Orders

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 15.—Jurors who heard the A. J. Adams liquor case here last week will have to come to court next Saturday morning and tell what they talked about in the jury room when the case was being considered, and any information they had about the case that might have any bearing on it.

A. J. Adams, alias York Adams, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on a liquor case during the past week. When Judge O'Brien addressed the jurors he cautioned them particularly on their conduct while they were hearing the case, and explained that misconduct on the part of a juror, although very slight, might cause the case to have to be heard over again, at great expense to the county. That Attorney C. W. Howth is of the opinion there was some slight irregularity is shown by the fact that he now demands the testimony of the jurors.

Matters of special interest to all three cities will be taken up at the meeting, according to Bracken. He stated that in his opinion, the industrial area of the entire county was centered in the territory between Beaumont and Port Arthur, which could not possibly be developed without co-operation of the two cities.

There's Work Enough Without Tackling the CURTAINS
In fact, there are several heavy house cleaning burdens you can unload on us to your great advantage. Most of them can be done here without any more trouble to you than phoning our driver.

The non-progressive and old-fashioned housekeeper who felt she must "do" the curtains, the doilies, the spreads and embroidered pieces herself was usually worn to a frazzle by the end of the first day of putting her home in spring-time array and freshness. The poor family had to suffer all the discomforts of housecleaning time in silence (or bring on a case of nerves for mother).

We can take your curtains, rugs, feather pillows, blankets, quilts, comforts, spreads, portieres and similar heavy things and with our splendid modern equipment easily put them into fine condition for either immediate use again or for storing away for a season.

No work and worry to you and actually better results than you could get yourself.

One season of doing it right—letting us take over the laundry part—will convince you of the sanity and economy of that way.

The Atlantic Refining company joins the growing list of complainants against rate service rendered by the Kansas City Southern railway. Tank car rates are almost prohibitive, C. Edwin Hunter declares.

Circumstances after circumstances arise to demand a readjustment of the K. C. S. attitude toward Port Arthur and surrounding territory.

Certainly some adjustment at least of the personal equation would be good business. Port Arthur is willing to be friends, but it demands tangible reasons for being friends. It is hard to be friends with some one who is only out for your money.

This contentious situation is something K. C. S. officials in the city today could opportunely look into while they are here.

The man who finds he has expended his salary ahead of time would be criticised by his neighbors if he helped himself to that stored fund in baby's bank to make up the shortage, wouldn't he?

However legal the aspect, there would seem to be a moral issue involved.

A fortune awaits the man who can solve America's automobile parking problem.

In these days a city doesn't have to be charged to be brought face to face with this baffling exigency.

Automobiles are multiplying. In Port Arthur, for instance, there are in excess of 5,000 this year.

When people ride to work, where are they going to put them? And what's the use of having them if they are to be kept in the garage at home?

Some day, perhaps, a practical solution will be found. We're curious to know what it will be.

When you take the interurban or the street car, or turn on your lights, electric stove or what not that takes "juice" of the wire, remember that down in Mexico a bunch of men sweated in the hot sun to make it possible.

It isn't every power plant in the country that has crude oil delivered to its own docks by steamship, but there's one in Port Arthur—the East Texas Electric company.

Natural law is a puzzling business. No one knows just what electricity is, but Mexican crude manufactures it in Port Arthur, through a system of ponderous machinery that many people do not stop to consider exists.

Homar Taylor is Port Neches' new speed cop, having been appointed by a committee of Port Neches citizens to enforce the traffic laws.

Action followed an epidemic of accidents one day last week in which two children and a man were seriously injured. When people get careless and there is no one to check up on them, they soon are suffering.

Port Neches has determined that drivers shall drive in a safe and sane manner, and this is one of the earmarks of a progressive city.

W. F. Hamilton, editor of the Wall Street Journal, oracle of the financial world, visits Port Arthur, paces around and departs carrying his secret with him.

Hamilton, who accompanied K. C. S. officials on their annual inspection visit here, is a heavy-chested man, and there are more barrels in the United States who hang on his every word than there are fans for Babe Ruth.

There may be a reason, dark and mysterious though it now appears, for his visit here.

Hamilton, if he is disposed to be nice and polite, will go back to his office in Wall Street, grab a type writer and dash off an editorial or two on Port Arthur and its need for a new line.

But that is probably the very thing he won't do. It wouldn't be nice and polite to his K. C. S. companions of the trip.

SAFETY FIRST

Two city chaps were flivvering home rather unceremoniously from a long drive through the country. "Bill," said Henry in a confidential tone, "I wanna be very careful. First, I think I know how to have us in a ditch."

"No," asked Bill in astonishment, "What I thought you was driving."

CITY OF DALLAS BUYS LAKE FOR NEW PARK

DALLAS, Texas, March 15.—Purchase of the Webb-Hoe club property, including a lake, by the city of Dallas, has been made, and plans are being made to convert the lake into a municipal park.

DON'T SHOOT UNTIL YOU SEE THE WHITES OF THEIR EYES

Wasn't it at Bunker Hill that the famous order was given to the American patriots not to waste their ammunition until they saw the whites of the enemy's eyes?

The inexperienced game hunter generally shoots too soon—before he has the aim and before he has the game under observation.

Texas is today being asked by two factions by the democratic party to instruct forty delegates to the democratic convention in favor of one or the other of these factions.

If there were any outstanding political figures within the party—one for whom there was real enthusiasm in the rank and file of the party—very little effort would be needed on the part of campaign managers. The endorsement of Texas would be given to such a candidate without the candidate or his campaign manager having to ask the endorsement.

But we have seen candidates McAdoo and Underwood actively asking for forty pledged delegates from Texas.

Texas is apparently reluctant, and Texas hesitates for the reason that Senator Underwood has a political history as an opponent of woman suffrage and an opponent of prohibition. She hesitates as to McAdoo because McAdoo has proved himself a seller of political influence and most of us Texans do not desire to elevate into the presidency an associate and a traveling companion of Edward Doheny of California.

Texas further hesitates because Texas desires that a virile aggressive and untainted citizen be picked as the democratic standard bearer. The man to represent the ideals of Texas has not asked for an instructed delegation. That man will be found fighting for virtue and progress on the floor of the convention.

He will be the man who has the courage to defy Tammany and Taggart. And can either of the two candidates now asking for Texas votes honestly say that they have not consorted with their associates regarding the attitude of both Tammany and Taggart? The forty representatives of Texas at New York should be instructed to vote against the selection of any favorite son of Tammany or any conservative combination of professional politicians who represent the eastern wing of the democratic party.

Among these men politics is a business, but these United States needs for their president a man who scorns the assistance of such business politicians. The man who is nominated should be nominated not because of, but in spite of, the Tammany-Taggart combination. For Texas to shoot forty instructed delegates to either McAdoo or Underwood would be the same thing as shooting a crow when the quails have not shown up.

WHEN YOUR BRAIN WORKS BEST

Among business men and engineers there's an increasing tendency to work at night. Not many years ago, it was the custom—except among lawyers—to "leave business behind at the office" and forget it as much as possible during the evening.

But now it's a common sight to see men in all sorts of industries and professions packing letters and other documents and blueprints into leather portfolios and Boston bags when they leave the office for home.

In other words, the notion is spreading, that the brain functions better at night. This is an ancient belief among writers. The later, the better. Many prefer the hours after midnight.

Does the brain really function better after the sun goes down and darkness blankets the earth? This interesting answer suggests itself:

Thought may be a definite force generated in the brain and broadcast into space like radio concerts. In support of this theory, people who are highly organized nervously become uncomfortable in large crowds, as if they are delicate receivers of broadcast thought.

Another illustration rises from memory. Examination day in the high school. Several hundred students scowling and cudgeling their brains intently. The teacher in charge of the room, watching for cheats, develops severe headache after an hour or so, and has to be relieved. She appears to be nervously shell-shocked by the thousands of thoughts, darting about the room.

Thought unquestionably is a force. The only argument is whether it vibrates into space or remains locked within the skull.

If thought-force really vibrates from the thinker and cut into space, the air must be charged with countless millions of those vibrations during daytime. Late at night, most people are asleep and their mental broadcasting stations are shut down until morning.

If so, we have the explanation of why people think faster and more clearly at night than during the day. At night there is less interference, concentration is easier—just as radio becomes best after midnight when few stations are operating.

All this is speculation, of course. But, after all, speculation is the closest we have so far been able to get to the real nature of the great mystery, human thought. We know that we think, but we know not how.

LUCKY FRIDAY

Strange how so many of us consider Friday an unlucky day, for Friday has been unaccountably lucky in the history of America. It was on a Friday that Christopher Columbus sailed westward into the unknown on his voyage of discovery. He discovered America on Friday and returned safely to Europe on Friday.

St. Augustine, our oldest city, was founded on Friday. The Pilgrims aboard the Mayflower sailed into Provincetown harbor on Friday. It was Friday when they made their final landing on Plymouth Rock.

George Washington, father of our country, was born Friday. Other famous events that happened on Friday: Bunker Hill was seized and fortified. The surrender of Saratoga took place, powerful in inducing France to throw her strength to the Colonists fighting for American independence. Benedict Arnold's reason was discovered.

Surrender at Yorktown, decisive in the war for independence, took place on Friday.

And it was on Friday that the Declaration of Independence was moved in congress by John Adams.

And still there are many who consider it unsafe to start on a journey or embark on a new venture on Friday. The superstition that Friday is unlucky probably is of religious origin, in connection with the crucifixion, according to historians. It has persisted through so many centuries that it still survives despite its being disproved thousands of times.

Superstition outlives granite.

GOLD FLOODS U. S. TREASURY

Money Pours in For Income Tax Payments

WASHINGTON, March 15.—A golden cascade poured into the coffers of the government tonight as disappointed taxpayers, denied the immediate reduction they hoped for, rushed their income tax returns into the offices of internal revenue collectors.

By midnight more than $200,000,000 will be in the safes of the federal tax collectors or in the mails. Many hold up cash.

This represents the average of the first quarterly income tax payment. It is impossible to estimate the size of this year's payment, officials of the internal revenue bureau said, because of the practical certainty that nobody will pay his taxes in full this year.

In other years hundreds of thousands of taxpayers have enclosed checks in full payment when sending higher returns required by law on this date.

But this year the hope of a 25 per cent reduction on the income earned in 1923 was held out. Congress wrote such a provision into the tax bill which has passed the house and is pending in the senate. Seeing that it would be impossible to pass that bill in time to affect the March 15 payment, President Coolidge urged congress to enact a special resolution, but that, too, failed.

Slump Sets Example

Now the hope is deferred but congressional leaders have promised that in one way or another the 25 per cent reduction will be made effective before December 15, when the last installment of the tax is due. For this reason practically all taxpayers today hold back a part of their payment. Some, like Hanson Slump, secretary to President Coolidge, sent in three-fourths of it. The taxpayers will not have to pay any more if the postponed reduction goes through. Others held back none.

"Because both institutions are mutually essential one to the other, each should support the other and pull with the other, rather than one to go about chasing rainbows," Mr. Looze stated.

You are classing the Duff project as a "rainbow," he was asked and he remarked something to the effect: "I believe your own wheeze." Kansas City Southern officials will leave here for the north this noon. Mr. Looze and Mr. Hamilton returning to New York, the remainder of the party to their homes.

Make a Million or Two! Here's How

FOLLOW TIPS OF SAUNDERS

Piggly Wiggly King Tells How It's Done

MEMPHIS, March 15.—The average man can make a million dollars. And he can do it easily, according to Clarence Saunders, dethroned king of the Piggly Wiggly chain of stores.

Saunders piled up a fortune of three million dollars then lost it trying to buck Wall Street.

He signed a bankruptcy petition and said, "I'll make all this back in a year or two—and then some."

Saunders, however, is perfectly willing to let others in on his secret. He lays down 10 commandments for those who would be his disciples. Here they are:

1.—Thou shalt work hard, and thou shalt have confidence in thy own ability.

2.—Thou shalt be loyal to thyself and loyal to the fellow man with truthful appraisal of each and every task and its result.

3.—Thou shalt render service to others, for success and wealth merely is the outward fruits of service mutually rendered.

4.—Thou shalt cast aside selfish interests, for they are the stumbling stones to success.

5.—Thou shalt forget all thought of immediate reward for thy industry.

6.—Thou shalt desire to do, and thou shalt have the courage to stand back of thy convictions, no matter what the price might be.

7.—Thou shalt be impersonal in discarding every impediment—personal or otherwise—in safeguarding everything that will promote success.

8.—Thou shalt repel illusions of every kind as they concern the human machine.

9.—Thou shalt find personality the biggest asset or greatest weakness of any man, for it reflects character.

10.—Thou shalt preserve thy bodily health, mental clarity and spiritual understanding, for these are the foundations of the Gibraltar of Success.

"If you get a good idea, pull it to pieces and then reconstruct it, leaving out the weak points," says Saunders.

"The average man, who sets out to make a fortune, has the idea that he must get all he can for as little as possible.

"The only way to gain wealth is to show the other fellow your proposition will benefit him. Make him see you are giving him a bargain and he is the one who will reap the big benefit."

Local Radio Station
In Daily Touch With Good Will Vessel

Daily communication between the Houston good-will tourists to the West Indies and the Gulf Refining company's wireless station in Port Arthur sets a record for wireless communication in this section, according to George N. Bliss, superintendent of the Gulf company's marine department here.

The average distance between the French line steamship Lafayette and Port Arthur covered by the radio messages is 1,800 miles through conditions which make radio communication very difficult, the marine head pointed out.

"Static conditions around the West Indies, particularly in the Florida straits, make wireless messages almost out of the question, yet constant touch has been kept between the ship and the Gulf company station here," he said.

One of the features of the Gulf Refining company's station here, the only equipment of this kind on the Atlantic-Gulf coast, south of New York, is the damped wave and continuous wave transmission and receiving systems, Bliss said, and added that this equipment is responsible for the good communication made possible between the Lafayette with its Houston trade trippers and Texas.

DALLAS FLOP HOUSES
RAIDED FOR VAGRANTS

DALLAS, March 15.—Sixteen flop houses in the downtown section here were raided early today by detectives in search of vagrants, gamblers and bootleggers. Several arrests were made and some liquor confiscated. The raids were part of a vigorous cleanup of federal and city officers.

CLARENCE SAUNDERS

Texas Ranger Declares Pro Law Enforcement on Border Is Joke

"One in particular" was William Hanson of San Antonio, Texas.

"Who was he?"

"He had just finished working with the Fall committee."

"He then started to aid the revolutionists?"

"Yes, that was my understanding."

"And you reported the matter to the department of justice?"

"Yes."

Reported Incident
"What was the general tenor of these statements?"

"That Captain Hansen had made arrangements with certain high officials in Washington whereby the United States government would sanction a revolution in Mexico, if the right people were at the head."

Baldwin then added a voluntary statement to the effect that in reference to violations of the postal laws and other laws, "we were supposed to report them to the various departments, but in reference to liquor laws we were to take no notice."

"This was when?"

"From December 28, 1920, until about May 10, 1921."

"Were rifles shipped across the border?"

"Yes."

"Do you know Gus T. Jones?"

"Yes, for many years. He was in the department of justice as a special stationed at El Paso. He was agent in charge when assigned to work with the Fall committee."

Too Active; Transferred
The Fall committee referred to in this testimony is a senate committee that made an investigation of Mexican affairs. Fall was chairman of it.

"Were you transferred when you were busy stopping violation of the neutrality laws?"

"Yes, in May, 1921. They gave me until the tenth of May to transfer to Dallas."

Baldwin said he reported "delinquency and irregularities of a certain district attorney at Dallas in 1922, the was a conspiracy to implicate a federal officer."

Told to Stop Raids
Baldwin repeated that he was ordered by the department of justice not to investigate or interfere or run down violations of the liquor traffic.

He said a John T. Anderson and two other members of an alleged whiskey ring raided a house where the liquor was stored when a feud broke

VANDERLIP NOW MYSTERY MAN

Hints New Bombshell in Teapot Domic

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Frank A. Vanderlip has turned man of mystery.

The New York financier who started the committee by his statements regarding the sale of the Marlon Steel, the late President Harding's newspaper, came to Washington last night on what he described as a "possibly important" mission.

Vanderlip would not tell why he was here. Members of the senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty and the oil scandal said they had not sent for him. At the White House it was stated the president had not summoned him.

"I was summoned all right," said Vanderlip. "I expect to be here some days. That's every word I'll say now."

Missouri Banishes Millionaire's Son

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 15.—John T. Milliken, Jr., 25, son of the late millionaire chemical manufacturer, today was banished forever from the state of Missouri.

Milliken was sentenced to three months in jail at Clayton, seat of St. Louis county, in connection with a shooting a year ago but released on condition he "never return to Missouri."

State Will Apportion $3 School Per Capita

AUSTIN, March 15.—The department of education is preparing to apportion the remaining $3 per capita of the $12 per capita apportionment of the current scholastic year, which means the only in April approximately $4,500,000 will be distributed among the various public schools of the state. Up to this time $9 per capita has been apportioned and distributed.

County Auto Tax HELD FOR 30 DAYS

Special to The News
BEAUMONT, Texas, March 15.—The $400,000 in automobile taxes from Jefferson county will probably not be sent to Austin for a period of 30 days yet according to the county tax collector.

Work of compiling data on all licenses issued is now under way and this information must be sent along with the money. Commissioners court voted to keep the money here pending a settlement of difficulties in regard to the tax and then later rescinded their motion and decided to send it.

Red Cross Workers Almost Get Parrot For Crippled Boy

Red Cross workers almost had their hands on a parrot for the little crippled boy who wants the bird for a companion.

A Port Arthur woman called up the Red Cross but, phone 1214, and not only offered to give the workers a parrot for the boy, but said she would send it around to the hat, at Fifth street and Dallas avenue.

Thinking they knew who the woman was who made the offer, Red Cross workers thanked her and said they would be right out for the parrot.

The trusty flier was cranked up and Miss Edith Upson, who has been looking for the bird, sped away, confident that the end of her search was near.

But she went to this house and that house, and no one knew anything about a parrot, or a call to the Red Cross but, and so Miss Upson is still looking for the parrot, and asking that the Port Arthur woman who called telephone again.

"And this time I'll ask her, her name and address, and go right out to get the parrot for the little patient," the Red Cross worker added.

CYCLONE BLOWS TRAIN IN RIVER

40 or 50 Passengers Reported Drowned

LONDON, March 15.—Between forty and fifty passengers are reported to have been drowned when a train crossing a bridge three miles from Bareilly, India, was struck by a cyclone, according to a news agency dispatch from Delhi.

About fifty others are reported to have been injured. Three coaches of the train were blown into the river and submerged and two others toppled onto the dry river bank, imprisoning their passengers.

Owing to the fact that many bodies are still under water, it is impossible to estimate the death toll with any degree of accuracy.

AGED NEGRO GIVEN DEATH FOR MURDER

TEXARKANA, Texas, March 15.—John Henry, aged negro, was found guilty by a jury of the murder of James A. Whitten, white, and sentenced to die.

Whitten's body was found in the rear of his country store at DeKalb, Houston Street, another negro, confessed he and Henry killed the storekeeper. Later Shaw was killed by officers when he tried to break jail.

ONCE UPON A TIME

A Bad Man Advertised "Buy Giant Firecrackers"

They make the big noise and a lot of good little boys went to the bad man with the pennies they had saved and said "Mister Please Give me some Giant Firecrackers," and the bad man smiled fiendishly and took their pennies and gave them Giant Firecrackers and the good little boys that were not awful careful got blown up and went to Heaven and the bad man that sold the bad firecrackers died and went to the place where it ain't Heaven. Public Opinion thought of all the little boys that Giant Firecrackers had killed and became afraid and the kids did not buy any more Giant Firecrackers.

Most of the fires in Port Arthur during 1923 are traced to oil stoves or lamps and second to these causes comes carelessness according to J. B. Coe's report covering the alarm in the city last year. Of the fires in buildings, oil stoves started twenty-two, oil lamps three and carelessness, eleven.

Fire Marshal Coe's Official Record shows conclusively that gas is the safe fuel for cooking.

Nederland Fig Tracts Opened CANNING PLANT ALSO PROPOSED

New Road to Port Arthur In Prospect

Opening of a section of land comprising 672 acres near Nederland and selling it in five-acre tracts to orchard developers is planned by the Tyrell-Combs Realty company. A modern canning factory also will be set up by the company when development projects for the land have progressed to such a stage as to make this practicable, it is announced.

A road, cut through the tract will give Nederland a cut-off of four miles to Port Arthur, and other roads will be constructed through the tract, the company officials said. While the land in the tract is considered unusually good for figs, other fruits as well will be grown in quantities.

In line with the proposed development by the company, the Nederland Chamber of Commerce will call a meeting of its membership for the purpose of having fruit growing in the Nederland territory, and the entire community is planning to get behind the movement for making Nederland the center of one of the greatest orchard sections of this part of Texas.

FREED HE SENDS CIGARS TO VET

Heroes Must Serve Though Enemies Liberated

By GEORGE B. RIT
LEAVENWORTH, Kas., March 15.—A box of cigars came in the mail to the United States penitentiary here.

It was addressed to Adrian Taylor, chief prisoner clerk, and virtually private secretary to Warden Biddle. Taylor existed in the army when the war started and fought on half a dozen sectors of the front, and in the five years since he has been in the penitentiary, he has been on search of his record. He has 30 years yet to serve.

Came From Spy
The sender of the cigars was Lothar Witzke, the only enemy spy in the United States who was sentenced to death during the war. He had stirred up hostility in Mexico and was considered a potential dynamite and a menace. He escaped once and was regarded as extremely dangerous.

The death sentence was commuted to life in the penitentiary, however, and last November he was released.

The alien spy free and to his credit, remembering a prison acquaintance with a gift. The loyal soldier and obedient prisoner left behind the wall.

Taylor's case probably looks the worst on official records and looks the most worthy of clemency to those personally acquainted with it of almost any in the list.

Serious Charge
The charge is criminal assault upon an aged woman in France. Taylor's story is that he heard a commotion in a house one night. It was a house not of the best reputation and was frequented by soldiers.

Taylor ran in and found two soldiers struggling with the proprietress. He fought with them, they fled and he lifted the old woman whom she had fallen on the floor.

Then the French gendarmes came in. Upon their testimony he was found guilty and sentenced by court martial. The victim identified him.

Perhaps the version indicated by circumstances, and accepted by the court is correct. Perhaps Taylor's good conduct before and since the incident is a pose and a fraud. But in a civil court, with innocence presumed until guilt is proved, there is at least a chance that the finding might have been different.

126 Locked Up

Taylor is among the 176 of wartime military prisoners here who have been examined at close range by Major James H. Stanfield and Major Frank H. Ross, sent from Washington for the purpose.

Over at the disciplinary barracks, at Fort Leavenworth there are 184 other military prisoners, who face sentences of five years or longer.

And there are other all but forgotten wartime soldiers at Atlanta and McNeil Island, Wash., and Fort Jay, N. Y., who are now being considered.

While there remain in prison—patriotic men who got into trouble while in uniform—the highways of the earth are open to the slackers, and the I. W. W. and enemy spies who are beneficiaries of swindling clemency. Not one remains in federal prison.

Don't Use Old Plate On New Car, Advice

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 15.—"Don't take the license off your old automobile and put it on a new one" is the advice of the county tax collector. It was stated in the office of the collector here Thursday morning that the office receives requests for information from motorists as to whether or not this is permissible, and although it was possible to change them, the state laws have been changed.

A few new numbers for automobile were received Thursday morning by the county tax collector but not enough to mail out to all automobile owners who had applied for them. The person who applied for them that were given the first license number will be mailed out when the supply is received.

VOTH ROAD PLAN WINS APPROVAL

Smith Bros. Contract for Work Accepted

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, March 15.—Working orders, together with approval of plans and an acceptance of the contract for the new Voth road were received here Thursday morning by County Judge B. B. Johnson. Contract for the new road was awarded the Smith Brothers Construction company here last week, but work was held up pending approval from the state highway commission.

Actual construction on the road will now begin within a few days. Sections on the road have been arranged already and the building of bridges and culverts will be attended to first. The most important bridge is that over Pine Island bayou, which will be of cross-timber, and will cost about $10,000. Cost of the bridge is included in the bid of approximately $200,000 for the road. Since the bridge is at the county line, Jefferson county will bear half the expense of the bridge and Harrison county the other half.

The new electrical store will carry every necessary kind of electrical fixture for putting into residential and business establishments, and will give Nederland one of the most up-to-date electrical shops in this section.

Before coming to Nederland, Hall has been engaged in electrical work for several years, and sold out his business in Houston to come to Nederland.

Nederland Pharmacy Makes Improvements

Adding considerable space to the prescription department in the rear of their store, improvements and remodeling work is being carried on by the Nederland pharmacy which will cost about $5,000 when completed, it is estimated.

Enlargement of the pharmacy is being made in order to be ready for the large business expected this summer, and also to keep in line with the regular development and growth of Nederland, the owners report.

New Band Organizes At Nederland Now

Organization of a band at Nederland is being backed by business men of the city, and a band director and instructor will be asked to locate there to take charge of the players.

When organization is completed, the band will give concerts during the coming summer months, and also will be available for playing for public functions, say those behind the project.

NEDERLAND IN PROTEST OF P.M.

Proposal to Move Office Stirs Town

Contest of the appointment of a new postmaster at Nederland, and a threatened fight in the courts against the reported removal of the post office from its present location has stirred Nederland, following the receipt of word that John Ware, incumbent, has received an appointment to the postmastership, effective April 1.

Those opposing the appointment of a new postmaster to succeed E. E. Kodenamy, resigned after eight years service, declare that before another postmaster can be appointed due notice of examinations must be given, and candidates for the place take civil service examinations.

Special Cars Will Take Home Seekers To Nederland Today

Special automobiles out of Port Arthur Sunday to take prospective investors out to see the lots, which are being offered for sale in the D. Kinard tract will be run into Nederland, the real estate man said Saturday.

Of the 120 lots offered in the tract, 35 have been bought during the past week by Nederland residents, and the balance, numbering 85, are expected to be disposed of soon, Kinard said. Building has been started on the lots, which lie south from the present residential section of Nederland.

Six acres of land adjoining the Kinard section have been purchased by A. L. Armstrong, and will be turned into a picnic and amusement ground with facilities for automobile tourists and other outing parties. The amusement ground will have garages, dancing pavilions, cold drink stands and other concessions.

5. Have indentures in writing for participation as a member of the Jamboree party by parent, school teacher, scoutmaster, troop committee and Scouts of his troop.

Sulphur Soothes Ugly, Itching Skin

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable
If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.
This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Scouts Will Hear Address By Radio

Chief Scout Executive West, Boy Scouts of America headquarters in New York City, will broadcast from the Westinghouse Electric Company operating Radio Station KDKA, a message to scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, troop committeemen and other volunteer workers on Tuesday evening, March 18, at 8 o'clock, Port Arthur time. His address will cover practically every part of the United States and will reach the total of 142,000 Scout leaders.
"People of Port Arthur who were able to receive this message will kindly call the local council office, phone 1628, and let us know how it came in and how many were in the party so that a report can be made the national office," local Executive D. W. Eddy asks.
Scout Troop Six will hear the address at a radio party at the home of Scoutmaster Geo. C. Seidley.

"LONE STAR" SEASCOUTS

We met at our ship's quarters last Wednesday night. The regular good attendance was noted. The Warrant Book called the meeting to order. Dues and registration fees were collected. Some tests were passed. Carl Eason and his crew were kept pretty busy making back splines on ropes for the rowing boats and later they splined them on the boats. We were glad to have Fred Schuch with us again.

The skipper and one warrant officer made themselves at home on a davitboat and all those who were invited to participate in their comfort soon arose after the "juice" was shot to them. One fellow still declares the skipper burned him with a cigarette, but the skipper does not smoke and strange enough the fellow is wondering how he was burned with a cigarette and yet could find no hole in the seat of his trousers. The same fellow was so pleased with the sensation of being "burned with a cigarette" that he put out of the "juice" again and then came to the conclusion that he had sat upon a pack of lighted ones for he was given the best cigarette the machine could afford. Carl Eddy paid us a visit. The skipper made a talk. It was decided that members would not be given the use of boats until they have completed the proper tests.

Our first junior officer gave out information on the International Jamboree. Two of our members have entered the contest. They are Henry Larsson and Willie Leffingwell. Each crew was given a boat to take care of. The Seascouts were rigged up during the week and a couple of evening trips made in her. Any number of the crews are planning trips. Crew three left yesterday for a trip to the Clay Cliffs. Crew one has a trip planned for March 22. After the meeting a few of the members went rowing. We have a new mascot for the troop named Professor Quack. Prof. Quack was captured last Sunday by Alred Kettner and several of the other boys while on a sailing trip in the Seascout up near the Locks. Professor Quack has made himself very much at home at the hut and in spite of the fact he was once a real wild duck he now enjoys to eat out of the hand of anyone who desires to feed him. Owen King and several other members who are good humorsmen are figuring that Prof. Quack will make a splendid dog.

Concerning the Right-of-Way

"The fact that you had the right-of-way doesn't help much when you wake up in the hospital."
Thus spoke one car driver to another in explaining the care that should be exercised when driving an automobile.
That is the attitude of the drivers of our motor bus line operating between Nederland and Port Neches. The first thing of importance in their minds is to take no chances—because they realize that even the "right-of-way" may be theirs in four quarters—it won't need broken limbs or restore life IN CASE of accident.

After the appointments, Skipper Boy gave us a short talk on the Seascout work.
Then we all went outside and Crew Five played Crew Six at a game of shinney. This was a very exciting game although there were no casualties. Crew Six beat to the tune of 3 to 4.
Everybody hurry up and buy your Seascout Manuals so you can pass your Ship test. You can buy the manuals from Frank Astell, address, 1247 Fifth street, for 60 cents, the cost to us. We have only three left so the boys who get these will be the ones who do not have to wait two or three weeks until another shipment arrives.
The yearly dues are due so you will have to pay your 50 cents at once as you are not counted as Scouts at the present time not being registered at National headquarters.
Let's go boys and put this Seascout program over with a bang, and pass our Ship tests as soon as possible.
This is the last time I will write the report of this troop for a Yeoman has been appointed in Crew Five.

GOOD FIGHT IS MOVIE BACKBONE

It Takes Stiff Scuffle To Put Picture Over

BY MAURICE HENLE
SEA Service Writer
New York, March 15.—Movie directors may disagree on many things, but on one point they are united: A good fight will put a picture over.
Fighting in the movies threatens to replace baseball as a national pastime. A picture without a fight these days is as rare as a news photograph of a beautiful woman without her knees crossed.
It doesn't matter if the photoplay is a romance of the 15th century, whether it is a story of New York Bowery life, whether it is a society picture or an ordinary love tale, the fight between two men must be there or it lacks the punch, so the directors think.

BIKE PATROL

The Bicycle patrol met as usual at the home of Mr. Daspit. The patrol is getting along very well. Two new members were taken in, Alan Rubin and Roy Gentil. Various things were discussed by the members concerning bicycle work. All candidates were dismissed for the reason that the new members were to be initiated. Next Tuesday night it is planned to have another winter coast. We will leave Mr. Daspit's home at 7:30. The basketball team played Troop 17 again in the Franklin school gym and defeated them 10 to 6. Sunday the patrol will attend the 6 o'clock service. After service we will meet at the Scout hall and appear before the Bicycle patrol committee. In the afternoon, baseball will be practiced on the city diamond, so be sure to turn out for it. Yesterday was spent delivering circulars.

Troop 15 opened its meeting with everyone repeating the Scout oath. Dues were collected. A number of tests were passed. Ashton Riche passed handcraft and judging; Allen Rubin, knife, axe and observation; Vernon Herold, trip; Alvin Bertrand, map. Each patrol then gave its song and yell. The tide seems to have turned for patrols one and two have started off to win fame for themselves. Patrol three had patrols one and two by 70 points. Mr. Rubin was a visitor. He wants all scouts to have an answer next meeting as to why he paid us a visit. So patrol leaders get your patrols busy and try to answer it. We closed our meeting at 9 p. m. after giving our pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Gloria Swanson is back in the role which made her famous.
Again she is the society butterfly with full quota of smart looking clothes. She stepped from this role in her last picture, "The Humming Bird," and her characterization of an Apache gained instant popularity throughout the country.
Now it's "A Society Scandal," soon to be released generally throughout the country. Supporting her in this Allan Dwan picture are Rod La Rocque, Ricardo Cortez and others of equal reputation. Mrs. Morgan Converse, member of New York's Four Hundred, has a part in it.
"The Covered Wagon," Paramount epic, has completed a solid year's run at the Criterion Theater on Broadway. Not to have seen "The Covered Wagon" is to have missed as fine a production as ever made.
No one may claim the name of the picture was chosen for its dramatic power. "The Covered Wagon"—its name, we mean—is anything but sensational. It has, in itself, little box office pulling power. It lacks the power of names. "The Ten Commandments," "America," "The Birth of a Nation," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," and other excellent films. It stood on its merits alone and lasted as it did (it's still going at the Criterion) because it is, in itself, a great picture.

PRINCE OF WALES IS INJURED AGAIN

Thrown from Horse During Steeple Chase

LONDON, March 15.—Falling in the arbut field cross-country steeple chase, the Prince of Wales today was thrown from his horse with such violence that he was rendered unconscious and had to be carried from the field on a stretcher to a first aid hospital.
The prince was kicked in the face by his steed and his features were covered with blood as attendants carried him out.
This was the second fall "Sailing Eddie" had suffered during the day. In the earlier race he had taken a tumble, but arose from the ground unhurt.
Prince Henry also was thrown to the ground twice but escaped unhurt. On the second occasion he was brushed into a spectator with a bicycle. His horse received lacerations, but Henry tumbled to the earth unhurt.
The Prince of Wales entered the races still not fully recovered from the effects of his last disastrous fall although physicians had reported that his broken shoulder blade was mending rapidly.

Flashy Races at East Texas Speedway This Afternoon When Fort Opens Second Card of Season

St. Joe Trims Beaumont, 9 to 5, in First Exhibition Ball Clash

OPERATION MAY KEEP HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP OUT OF RING THIS YEAR

Nick Exporters For Seven Runs In Fourth Frame

Miller, Lewan, DeMaggio Stage Melee of Spectacular Plays; Saints' Fast Infield Halts Progress of Skipper Joe Bernson's Squad

BEAUMONT has a ball club this year, but so have the Saints. They proved it yesterday when they trimmed the Exporters, 9 to 5, in the first of a two-game exhibition series. With two out in the fourth and the Exporters leading the way, St. Joe's Williams walked, Brooks singled and started a winning rally that totalled 7 tallies before Beaumont's fielders could get together and halt St. Joe's here yesterday in the initial exhibition game of the season for the Western leaguers. The rally was halted, but with Gassaway tightening down the screws in the final frames, the Texas loop squad didn't have a chance to come back. The Saints have a slugging squad of men, and Skipper Joe Bernson, who opened the game playing his favorite post at the first sack, sent 38 of his prospects to the field this afternoon for duty.

Love, purchased by St. Joe from Oklahoma and playing his first season in a Saint uniform, opened on the mound, twirling the horseshoe to Brooks. Love was nipped for four tallies in the third frame, but the Saints' speedy Bailey to the hole. Bailey permitted the Exporters to touch him for two doubles and a single, and Gassaway finished on the rubber.

Manager Joe Bernson used Hill, McNeil, Henry and Signan on the mound, but the Saints' speedy Bailey to the hole. Bailey permitted the Exporters to touch him for two doubles and a single, and Gassaway finished on the rubber. Beaumont, in the same class as the St. Joe team, has a better club than the North-Enders have claimed in several years. Now they look like the proverbial million dollars. Skipper Bernson has in Williams, Lohan, catcher of considerable ability, and several hurlers who are showing good stuff. Bill Huber is playing his usual consistent game, while Taylor, Skinner, Acton and Burke cover up the dark spots in the outfield. Black, new second-sacker, is perhaps as flashy a player as the Exporters will have this season, and looks good at the plate.

Exporters Find Love Beaumont jumped on Love with all fours in the third stanza and socked his offerings for first blood. Stansbury opened the round and went out at first. Wires flew out to Jenkins. Hill singled and went to second when Brooks let one slip by Taylor. Wires walked. Action singled, scoring Hill and Taylor. Huber swatted one and went to second when Lewan muffed the fly. Burke singled, scoring Action. Black drove a high one toward the rightfield wall, and Miller robbed him of a hit. Beaumont scored again in the fourth when Wires duplicated Stansbury's double, scoring the latter. But the Saints wrote this after that for the visitor's scores.

Saints Stage Rally The Saints' rally came with an unexpected rebound in the last frame of the same frame, after Stevenson and Jenkins had gone out. Miller opened the period with a single and went to second when Stevenson drove a hot one to the pitcher's box. Williams walked, and Jenkins fanned. Brooks found one in his alley and placed it safe, scoring Miller. Huber, who had relieved Love, was walked. Nuffer smashed a single over second, and Brooks came home. DeMaggio singled, scoring Bailey and Nuffer. Hill hurled one down Lewan's avenue, and the erstwhile Saint center-fielder pitched it over the right-field wall. DeMaggio scored ahead of Lewan. Miller fanned, retiring the side. Teams Play Fast Ball Skipper Mathes' boys found two more in the fifth frame, and put the game on ice for the day.

Despite the cold wind that hit through the field at intervals, the whipped around the corners of the club house, both Beaumont and St. Joe fielders found time to play brisk positions, and lived the game with three speedy double plays, two of

Did Golf Ruin Ruth's Feet?

THE great Ruth has been laid out with a temporary foot ailment at Hot Springs, Ark., where he is doing preliminary spring training. No wonder! Look at his position at the end of a golf swing, with his left ankle turned completely under, bearing much of the burden of his 230 pounds. The marvel is that he hasn't pulled up with a broken bone.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDINALS, 6-4

Billy Southworth, New Outfielder, Performs

SARASOTA, Fla., March 15.—With the regular championship team on the field, the New York Giants won their first game of the season here this afternoon in an exhibition battle with the St. Louis Cardinals by a score of 6 to 4.

Billy Southworth, new outfielder, scored from the Houston Braves, drove in two runs and scored one on a triple and a single. The Giants got away ahead in the fourth inning, with two runs.

Score: N. Y. 6, St. L. 4. R. H. E. N. Y. 000 100 120—4 8 2 St. L. 000 210 308—6 10 2

Chicago Heavyweight Due in States Soon NEW YORK, March 15.—Quentin Romero, Chicago heavyweight champion, sailed from Santiago today on the steamer Teno, due here April 2, according to a cable received by Tex Rickard.

Pietro Seeks Row Comes now Pietro Corri, an Alpine mountaineer of Italian Belgian stock, who yearns for a chance to win the world's heavyweight championship.

On Pietro Corri's manly chest is depicted in lurid hues a prize ring showing a fighter being counted out. "That's a sketch of my last knock-out," explains Pietro—failing to specify whether he or his opponent is being counted out.

Track Booms Game With the prospect bright for the opening of the new track at Miami, Fla., next winter another place will be put on the racing map which will help to take up the slack. The main trouble with racing right now from a breeder's and trainer's standpoint, is that there are too many horses and not enough places to race.

The rules state that a batsman is entitled to first base if hit by a pitched ball, unless, in the opinion of the umpire, he plainly makes no effort to get out of the way of the pitched ball.

Jack Dempsey Unable To Defend Crown Within Six Months, Jack Kearns Says

NEW YORK, March 15.—Jack Dempsey is in bad physical condition. He will not be in shape to defend the heavyweight championship for several months and he may not be ready to fight in the fall.

For these reasons Dempsey refused to accept Tex Rickard's offer to meet Tommy Gibbons in Jersey City early in June, it was learned from a post-office source today.

Rickard admitted that he had been forced to abandon plans he had in mind to start the outdoor season with a return bout between Dempsey and Gibbons. He said negotiations had been called off because of Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, who refused to consider the match and not because he had "cooled" on the drawing power of the match.

Thinks Gibbons Good "I still think that Gibbons is a card and I want to use him this summer even if I can't get Dempsey to fight him. I have Erminio Spilla and Quintin Romero coming, and maybe I can fix up a fight for Gibbons," Rickard said.

When Dempsey was operated on recently it was reported that his condition was more serious than his friends wanted to know and that it was quite possible he would not be able to fight for a long time. Dempsey left the hospital a few days after the stories went around and he is now on his way to California.

"Only an Incident" Rickard felt sure that the signing of Dempsey would be only an incident when he offered Gibbons terms for a return bout with the champion in the metropolitan district this summer. Rickard went ahead with his plans and had them almost completed when he learned that Dempsey would not fight.

Kearns, it was learned, told Rickard last night that Dempsey was in such condition as a result of the operation that he did not want to take a chance on sending him in the ring with any fighter and that he had decided to "lay him up" until the fall so that he might have a chance to get back in shape.

To Enter Movies? When Kearns refused the offer of a New England syndicate recently to stage a Dempsey-Wills fight on July 4, Kearns told them that he had a motion picture job that would mean $2,000,000 to Dempsey and that he couldn't afford to accept any fight offers.

Motion picture men here say that they do not know of any $2,000,000 that is available for any producer on a scale of a film.

Kearns said today that Dempsey was all right and that he had good reasons for not accepting any offers.

Firpo to Wed During April? BUENOS AIRES, March 15.—Angel Firpo who was knocked out by Jack Dempsey, has been knocked about twice as far in a bout with Kid Cupid, Argentine gossip had it today.

Firpo has asked that his match with Al Reich be postponed until April 5, to give him time to "get into condition" and the request has been granted. It is understood that the "Wild Bull" has been tamed and corralled and is to be married to the Argentine actress, Senorita Ratti.

Leaders Watch Veterans Work Pay Little Attention to Activity of Rookies NEW YORK, March 15.—Indications of a legal fight that might cause suspension for the season of International league baseball in Newark, appeared today following the action of President John Conway Toole, in taking the Newark franchise from Michael McTigue who purchased it recently.

McTigue, fresh from Houston and several flashy matches of recent date, is here today.

NEWARK MAY DO WITHOUT BALL Club Franchise On Verge of Court War NEW YORK, March 15.—Indications of a legal fight that might cause suspension for the season of International league baseball in Newark, appeared today following the action of President John Conway Toole, in taking the Newark franchise from Michael McTigue who purchased it recently.

McTigue was ordered by the other club owners of the league to post a $25,000 bond at noon today as assurance that he would find a ball park in Newark and fulfill the obligations of a club owner.

When McTigue failed to post the bond, Toole declared that the franchise automatically reverted to William A. Ashman and Bernard Moran, its former owners.

McTigue, in Newark, then issued a statement saying that the demand of the club owners for the posting of the bond was illegal and that he would seek court action to prevent the transfer of the franchise back to its former owners.

JONES MEETS HAVERS IN ATLANTA TOURNEY ATLANTA, Ga., March 15.—Robby Jones, open American champion, and Arthur Havers, British open champion, will meet here in a 36-hole match April 6, according to an announcement today. The golf classic which will give the first comparison between the two champions, will be played over the Eastlake course, Hobbs' home green, for the benefit of charity.

OREGON'S COACH Joe Maddock, former University of Michigan star tackle, has been elected football coach at University of Oregon to succeed Ray Huntington. Maddock for a number of years assisted Toole in coaching Michigan teams, after graduating from that institution.

McGraw and Mack rank as the oldest in point of service. "Muzz" going to the Giants in 1903 and Mack to the Athletics in 1901. Harris, recently appointed manager of the Senators, is the youngest in years. He is 27. McGraw has piloted the most winners.

Man Who Meets Actor Monday

CLARENCE EKLUND

EKLUND HERE TO MEET GREEK

Actor to Weigh Around 185 For Match

Clarence Eklund, light-heavyweight champion of the world, will be the distinguished athletic visitor of the city again tomorrow evening when he steps through the ropes of the huge arena in Will Fort's Athletic club to face George Vasek actor in a finish, no-time-limit wrestling match at catch-weights.

And the most interesting part about the match is the fact that the two grapplers are moving up in a "winner take all" affair. If Eklund loses, his trip to Port Arthur this time will be on himself. It won't carry off a dime. If Vasek loses, he will have spent an evening on the mats in Port's club rooms without compensation. The bets are two-to-one that both Eklund and Actor will put forth every effort to win.

Additional seats are being installed at the club to care for between seven and eight hundred fans, and Promoter Fort is expressing the opinion that the club will be packed Monday evening long before the pair of giants get together in the main event.

Actor will weigh around 185 pounds; Eklund will tip the scales over his usual 175-pound margin, he having been wrestling for the past several weeks at catch weights.

Several attractive preliminaries will be staged prior to the main bout, in which local talent will prevail, it is understood.

Announcement was made last night that one body will be admitted free with each purchased ticket; another men with more than one lady accompanying them. Promoter Fort said, will be expected to pay extra for each additional lady. Only a few passes have been issued, the promoter continued, and persons not having tickets will be refused admission.

"The fact that you've wrestled or boxed somewhere sometime is not an admission ticket, and unless you wish to be turned down at the door, you will save yourself the humiliation of such an occurrence by buying a ticket," Fort said, indicating that "in the past too many have walked through the door without paying a cent."

Starting of the Eklund-Actor will in the athletic club is the first event of its class to be presented in the place since Fort opened the club rooms. Two local bouts have been held there, but Monday evening will be Fort's first effort to confine the big matches to the club's gymnasium space.

Eklund, fresh from Houston and several flashy matches of recent date, is here today.

NEWARK MAY DO WITHOUT BALL

Club Franchise On Verge of Court War

NEW YORK, March 15.—Indications of a legal fight that might cause suspension for the season of International league baseball in Newark, appeared today following the action of President John Conway Toole, in taking the Newark franchise from Michael McTigue who purchased it recently.

McTigue was ordered by the other club owners of the league to post a $25,000 bond at noon today as assurance that he would find a ball park in Newark and fulfill the obligations of a club owner.

When McTigue failed to post the bond, Toole declared that the franchise automatically reverted to William A. Ashman and Bernard Moran, its former owners.

McTigue, in Newark, then issued a statement saying that the demand of the club owners for the posting of the bond was illegal and that he would seek court action to prevent the transfer of the franchise back to its former owners.

JONES MEETS HAVERS IN ATLANTA TOURNEY ATLANTA, Ga., March 15.—Robby Jones, open American champion, and Arthur Havers, British open champion, will meet here in a 36-hole match April 6, according to an announcement today. The golf classic which will give the first comparison between the two champions, will be played over the Eastlake course, Hobbs' home green, for the benefit of charity.

THE NUT CRACKER

HOT SPRINGS, March 15.—Our estimates were profoundly shocked at the pathetic condition of Babe Ruth, celebrated fly victim. As Mr. O'Goofy so feelingly remarked, the Babe looked about as anemic as a 10-ton block of granite.

Mr. O'Goofy went out to the local golf links, where the big league ball players swing their clubs. "It is the most interesting wreck I've seen since I watched the Philles last July," he commented.

Both Mr. O'Goofy and your correspondent were profoundly shocked at the pathetic condition of Babe Ruth, celebrated fly victim. As Mr. O'Goofy so feelingly remarked, the Babe looked about as anemic as a 10-ton block of granite.

The great Ruth was not in a very communicative mood when he left the clubhouse and had practically nothing to say. Which is a new record for him and the season hasn't even started.

The demon athletes get in condition here by climbing mountains. In the summer they keep in condition by climbing uprises.

The local merchants aren't exactly excited about ball covers as profitable sources of revenue. It is whispered that some of them wouldn't spend a dime to see the Smith Brothers get a shave.

Jack Result, the heavyweight, is here, training for a Dempsey fight. It is whispered his training consists of flipping backwards at frequent intervals and listening to the count of 10.

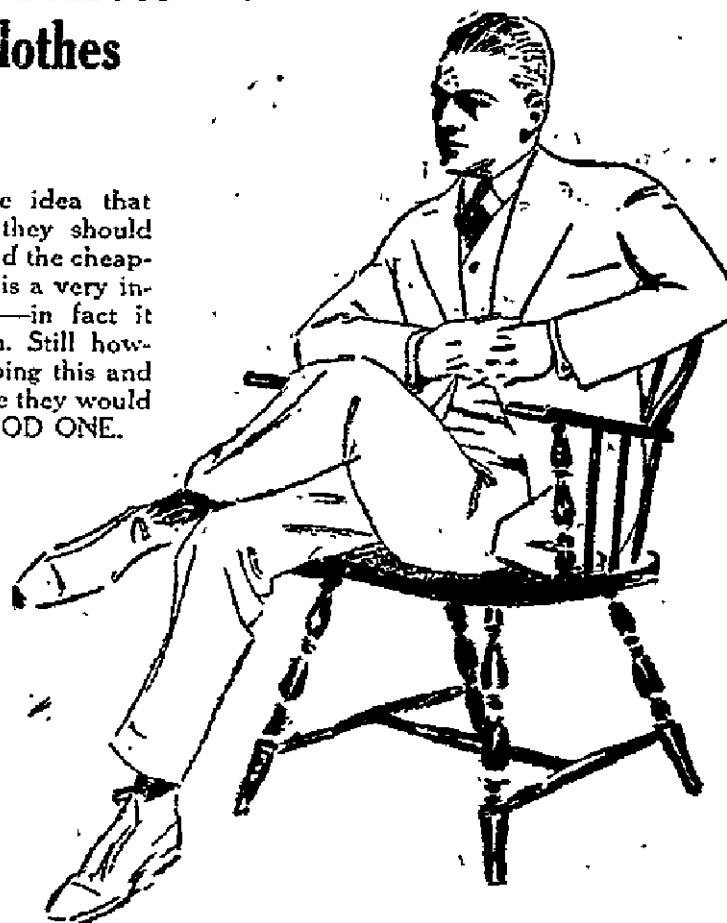

Ball players come to the springs to get the kinks out of their system, but this is no place for girl athletes with permanent waves.

The hot vapor of the baths is said to be very beneficial. The hot vapor of the real estate guys, however, should be taken sparingly, if at all.

All the American League teams except the Athletics had men boiling out here. Mr. Mack does all the boiling for his team, according to it has slipped into eighth place.

The Really Correct Idea In Clothes

MEN'S QUALITY WEAR

Some fellows have the idea that when they want clothes they should look and look until they find the cheapest garment in town. This is a very incorrect and inflated idea—in fact it has almost been forgotten. Still however, some few insist in doing this and have to buy two suits where they would only have to buy one, GOOD ONE.

Remember this—"The workmanship, fit and style satisfaction remain in one's memory pleasantly, long after the original price has been forgotten." This is more than true of Spring Clothing.

3-Piece Suits

We are now showing large selections of three piece clothing in Spring's newest styles, in stripes, solids, and combinations of color harmonies. Suits that will wear you this spring, this fall, and next spring—that is the kind of clothing that we sell you. Could you ask for more?—Oh! yes, the prices are

$35.00 to $55.00

2-Piece Suits

Our first shipments of light weight clothing for the new season have arrived. They'll give neat appearances now and furnish comfort all through the coming months. Hundreds of new patterns, weaves and color schemes from which you can make your selection. The prices for these range from

Five Big League Clubs Select New Managers for Coming Year

By NEA Service NEW YORK, March 15.—The 1924 campaign will see five new managers in the two major leagues. Four of them will be with the American League and one with the National League. The quintet includes: Banerjee of the Braves; Harris of Washington; Chance, White Sox; Fohl, Red Sox; and Slater, Browns. For three of them, Banerjee, Harris and Slater, it will be the initial season in the role. Incidentally, the three may be termed player-managers. Banerjee and Harris are presently unable to take their places in the club house, while Slater's presence in the batting order is only contingent on the recovery of the optic affliction that kept him out of every game last season. All are infielders, too. Of the others, Chance and Fohl have already piloted two other American League clubs. Chance coached the Yankees some years ago and led the Red Sox in 1923. Fohl has piloted Cleveland and St. Louis teams. Chance also managed the Chicago Cubs during the outfit's pennant-winning days. He was a first baseman, and one of the best at that. Infielders, by the way, seem to

Star Pupil of Missouri Proves Sensation, Breaks Tutor's Record

Simpson a Picture In Events He Took Part In At School

By BILLY EVANS

Is the pupil to outdo the master? Is McCullough Keeble, sophomore at the University of Missouri, to be a greater hurdler than Bob Simpson, track coach at that institution?

Simpson in his student days at Missouri was the sensation of track athletics in college circles. He established many records, a number of which still stand.

After graduating from Missouri, Simpson, because of his athletic prestige, was made track coach at that school. His showing as a coach has been in keeping with his athletic performances.

While Simpson has been very successful in developing stars in all events of the track and field it is only natural that his greatest success should be with the hurdlers.

The possessor of perfect form in banking the hurdles, fleet of foot, Simpson has a picture in every race he took part. Many star athletes fall to his coaches, Simpson appears the exception. In Keeble one sees a second edition of Simpson.

Recently in an indoor meet between Missouri and Kansas, at Kansas City, Keeble gave some idea of what may be expected of him before he departs from Missouri.

In covering the 50-yard high hurdle dash in 9 seconds flat he broke all indoor records for that event.

It is a rather interesting coincidence that the previous record of 9.1 seconds had been held for several years by Bob Simpson, Missouri coach.

The situation is unusual in that instruction by Simpson enabled his star pupil, Keeble, to break the master's record.

Simpson regards Keeble as one of the greatest prospects he has ever coached and looks for him to shatter several marks in the next two years.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Outfielders Mammuch of the Detroit Tigers was hit by a pitched ball 17 times during the 1923 campaign. There doesn't appear to be anything unusual about that statement. Yet from the viewpoint of the umpires in the American League it has considerable meaning.

Once upon a time, getting hit by a pitched ball was a favorite stunt with many big league players. That system is no longer popular. The athletes much prefer to hit the ball than be hit.

Getting out of the way of a badly pitched ball is quite an art. Some players do it gracefully, others awkwardly. The point is to convince the umpire that you are really trying to get out of the way.

In golf, footwork plays a big part in the success of the player. Getting distance and accuracy depends as much on the feet as the eyes and arms.

The flat-footed boxer is at a great disadvantage when pitted against the shifty athlete.

Footwork plays an equally important part in the work of the batsman in baseball. It is as essential in keeping from being hit as in hitting the ball.

Certain batters by a more movement of head or body avoid the ball. Others drop to the ground in a heap. Some step forward or backward to get out of the way.

Such methods to avoid being hit are apparent, and make it an easy matter for the umpire to reach a decision. It is the stationary batsman who causes all the trouble for the judges of play.

Kid Elberfeld, famous big leaguer in his day, was such a batsman. The kid feared no pitcher, hugged the plate closely with his body extending well over it.

Elberfeld took such a position on every pitcher and retained it regardless of the style ball pitched. If a ball was thrown directly at Elberfeld it was almost a certainty that he would be hit.

The kid's feet were as if frozen to the ground, and he would move his body over so slightly.

Mammuch of the Detroit club is a somewhat similar batsman, except that he is a left hander. The promising Detroit recruit stands fairly close to the plate and assumes a crouch position.

The umpires were constantly in hot water with Elberfeld. Often I refused to give him his base, it being apparent to everybody in the park that he made no effort to avoid the pitch, yet Elberfeld I am sure was perfectly truthful in his argument that he did not purposely try to get hit.

Mammuch, on a first ball pitched inside, seems useless to get out of the way. He is a great batsman and naturally would much prefer taking a crack at the ball.

Often I cautioned him last year, when a pitch was perhaps only an inch away from the plate would almost graze his shirt, only to have him assure me that he had no intention of being hit.

Possibly Ty Cobb, master batsman, will teach him the art of getting out of the way. On such balls Cobb shifts back a trifle and puts them down the first base line.

The umpires hope Cobb so perfects Mammuch's one fault at the plate, as it will make things much easier for them.

Showing to advantage when the going is toughest is the supreme test. Coming through with a base hit when a safe knock means the ball game, is far more difficult than with the bases empty.

The crisis, the pinch as we say in sport, is the tough spot. It calls for the best that is in the athlete. If he has a fraying in his mecum, it will crop out at such a time.

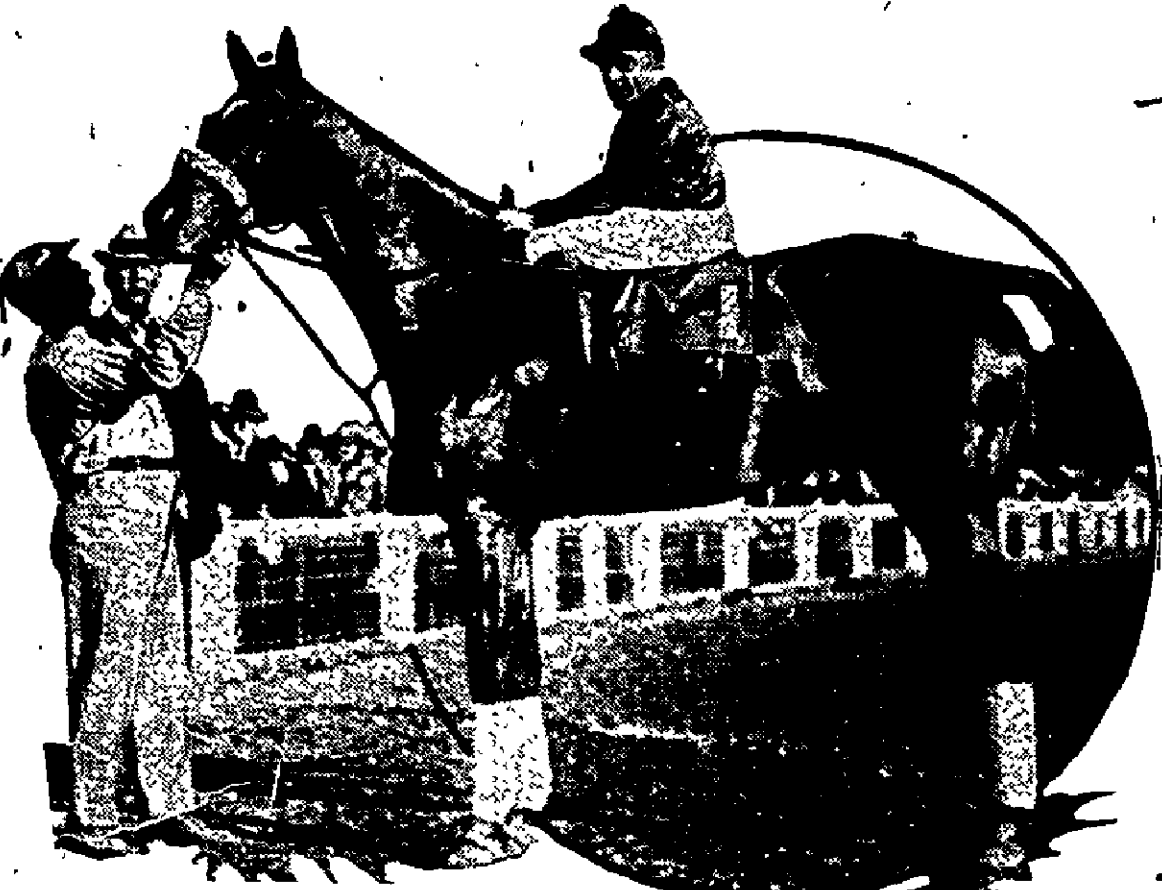

Psychology plays its part in the old punch. There are some athletes who are not lacking in courage perhaps, yet who invariably falter when it is up to them to deliver the punch that means victory.

Their temperament is such that they cannot rise to the situation. On the other hand, certain athletes regarded as only ordinary in the long run shine in the pinch.

I know of big league players who seldom hit better than .350 who are more feared by pitchers than men who, on an average of 100 points better.

One of the most courageous exhibitions that has ever come under my observation on the bill ball was the no-run, no-hit game. Clarke

TILDEN UNDER WRITING BAN

Net Star Cannot Compose Tennis Articles

NEW YORK, March 15.—If William Tilden, world's tennis champion, insists upon writing as a professional after January 1, 1925, he will be declared ineligible to compete as an amateur, the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association said informally tonight. The vote of the committee was taken after Tilden had appeared and asked the committee to tell him how he stood. He had taken the position that he was a newspaper man before he became a tennis star and that the rule passed against player-writers by the association should not be applied to him.

The action of the committee resulted in a rather indirect statement that while the committee cannot vote on Tilden's case until 1925, it will not permit him if the facts of his case are the same then as they are now.

Tilden, after the meeting and he did not care to make a statement.

Robertson of the Chicago White Sox pitched against Detroit.

In this game Robertson accomplished the unusual feat of not allowing a single Detroit player to reach first base. Each of the 27 men to face him was disposed of in order.

The remarkable feature of this game was the fact that it was in the spring of the year when pitchers are not at their best and the advantage always with the batsman; also that it was a recent pitcher working against the hardest hitting organization in the American League.

However, to me the outstanding feature was the way Robertson worked under fire. The Detroit club using every legitimate method to break him down.

The contention was raised that Robertson was doctoring the ball. Trick pitching having been ruled out, such a practice was of course illegal.

Time after time, after a player had been retired, several members of the Detroit club would insist that the umpire take a look at the ball.

It had been raining for several days prior to the game, the ground was slow and heavy, and when the ball struck the black dirt of the infield it soon became discolored.

Neither Dick Nallin nor myself, who umpired the game, could see that Robertson was doing anything illegal, but to avoid possible protest, I threw out many balls and made Robertson work with new ones.

Through it all Robertson merely smiled, tossed the ball to the umpire whenever requested, without the slightest show of indignation, and looked to his knitting.

During the last five innings the game was delayed a score of times to have the ball examined. And it seemed to me as if Robertson, realizing that he had the Tigers fussed, went through certain unnecessary operations simply to excite the curiosity of the opposition. It was the most courageous bit of pitching I have ever seen.

Eight Go On Trial In Galveston Death

GALVESTON, Texas, March 15.—Johnny Jack, Names, H. J. Kruger, and six others were to go on trial here today on charges of conspiracy to violate the United States customs laws.

The charges against the men came as the aftermath of the shooting to death of J. J. Davis in an alleged bootleggers' quarrel a few weeks ago.

The men were originally scheduled to go on trial on February 28, but upon order of United States Commissioner Charles G. Dwyer the trial was postponed until today.

Kruger is charged with the murder of Davis and is at liberty on bond. The customs law violations are concerned principally with the importation of liquor into Galveston.

A large number of them are dope and alcohol addicts and oppose being placed in charitable institutions because they could not gain their opiate, McFarland said.

He adds that their licenses to sell opiate, etc., be canceled.

CHICAGO WARS ON UNDERWORLD

Seeks to Stop Outbreak of Murders, Violence

CHICAGO, March 15.—The arm of law enforcement tonight reached a strong arm into the recesses of the underworld in the biggest cleanup the city has known. Hundreds of gangsters, beer runners, saloon keepers and suspected criminals were gathered for questioning in an effort to check a virtual carnival of crime.

Attorney Directs War

Armed by a series of murders, bombings and threats of further violence, States Attorney Robert E. Crowe, personally directed his agents in cooperation with police on scores of raids. More than a score of known gangsters already are jailed.

Warfare between "rival syndicates" in the beer running business was responsible for at least a dozen murders during the last year, Crowe declared. The recent double killing of Mr. and Mrs. John Duffy and several other shootings resulted from the "beer" war, Crowe believes.

Arrest Five Gangsters

Among the first men arrested today were five Philadelphia gunmen who police suspect of attempts on the life of Hirsche Miller, reputed rival of Duffy. Miller was ambushed in his automobile and miraculously escaped death from a fusillade of revolver shots. Later the same day his place of business was bombed.

Fearing a general outbreak of murders as a result of the Duffy killings and the attempted slaying of Miller, police have placed a guard around Miller.

In addition to the drive against the "beer running gangsters" Crowe's forces started to run down a band of robbers believed responsible for the $800,000 Denton station mail robbery.

Arrest of Three Negroes May Clear Robberies

Activities of what police term to be a gang of negro thieves said to be responsible for a number of robberies here in the last few months yesterday afternoon were believed brought to a close by Detectives "Katie" Brizendine and C. E. Brown when three negroes were held to await the action of the grand jury.

Two of the negroes are minors, the third being Alfred Small, proprietor of a drug store on Granville avenue at Eleventh street. Small is charged with receiving and concealing stolen property.

Charged With Robbery

The two young negroes are charged with robbery, a drug store and tailor shop being the robberies upon which the charges filed yesterday afternoon were based.

According to Detective Brizendine goods recovered have been identified by the proprietor of the Bureau Drug store on Granville avenue at Seventh street as having been stolen from his place of business March 11.

Tells Story of Robbery

The story told by Henry Gillis-Jebb, negro, proprietor of the drug store, related that one of the negroes came into his place and asked to get a bucket of water for his car. While back in the store it is alleged by officers the negro removed the stick from the window and flung light the place was robbed. Gun, candy, cigars and cigarettes were stolen from the place.

The second job traced to the two negroes through their confessions was that of the Tip Top Tailor shop in which 24 suits of clothes were stolen. Eight of these have been recovered by the officers.

Small was held under bonds of $200 and the other two negroes under $500 each.

COOLIDGE AIDS TEAPOT PROBE

Removes Barrier to Squire At Sinclair Income Tax

WASHINGTON, March 15.—President Coolidge today came to the aid of the senate oil investigating committee by taking a step which promised new information that may supply some of the missing links in the chain of facts regarding financial transactions in connection with the making of the royal oil reserve leases.

Would Repeal Law

The president ordered the treasury department to revise its regulations so that the oil committee could inspect privately the income tax returns of Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, E. L. Doheny, lessee of California reserves and Albert B. Falk, who made the leases of the Sinclair and Doheny oil companies.

The treasury late today carried out Mr. Coolidge's orders by promulgating revised regulations.

These will permit the purpose of the McKellar resolution to be carried out, through an inspection by the committee of the returns, McKellar in a resolution adopted sometime ago by the senate called on the president to permit the committee to delve into the secret figures. Mr. Coolidge replied that the law would not allow it, but promised to see whether the resolutions could be so amended as to make it legal. McKellar said today his resolution was inspired by a request from members of the oil committee.

This step may put new life into the oil inquiry, which tonight was believed to be in its final stages. Unless some new leads are developed, which require summoning of new witnesses, it is believed the investigation can be rounded up and ended within two weeks.

Franchise Values Up for Opinion

By United Press. AUSTIN, March 15.—A general hearing is contemplated by the railroad commission to consider whether or not the allowance of a six per cent franchise value is a proper item in the general valuation of the railroad property. Such a hearing is forecast in an order issued today by the commission adopting valuations on additions and betterments for the Texas Katy lines.

During the time the six per cent franchise value has been allowed by the commission it has caused approximately $25,000,000 to be added to the railroad valuations in Texas.

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, March 15.—Settling of the industrial market was checked in the early part of the final hour by the conspicuous strength of a number of railroad stocks, including Norfolk and Western, which was active at the best levels of the year, and Chesapeake & Ohio which went into a new high ground on the present recovery at 72.

Readiness in the steel stocks was another stabilizing factor. The whole group was sustained by indications of increasing orders, the steel corporation having booked contracts so far this month in excess of the February average of 2,000 tons per day.

The Greatest Service

A great deal of glamour surrounded the short-lived operation of a certain railroad company's eighteen hour train between New York and Chicago.

Eighteen hours from New York to Chicago is a terrifically fast running schedule. That train averaged about 60 miles an hour—counting all stops—which means that its average speed while in motion had to be 80 miles an hour, faster in case of delays caused by heavy traffic.

The railroad company cancelled this train after a short operating period. It was too fast to be safe. True—it was convenient for the public to be able to make this trip in eighteen hours—but far better to go slower and get there alive! After all—safety is the greatest service a common carrier can offer you.

Amundsen and Hammer to Employ New Type of Plane in Flight Over Pole

WILL FILL GAS TANK AT POLE

Dangerous Landings on Ice Feared By Explorers

By HAAKON H. HAMMER

(Written Especially for The News)

A gasoline station at the North Pole—or close by—will be established for refueling our plane.

The White—with which we hope to make man's first flight over the pole—has a flying radius of 1300 miles. The total distance from Spitzbergen to Alaska is about 1800 miles. A landing in the vicinity of the pole will therefore be necessary. So we expect to fly to it first, establish a gas supply depot, and then go back for the final dash.

Whether we will find water or ice in these latitudes we cannot tell. If there is only ice our landing will be somewhat dangerous as we are to find very rough spots, even on an apparently smooth landing surface, and the strain on the hull will be very great.

We are therefore now experimenting with a reversible propeller which if satisfactory will be a valuable asset as it will enable the plane to come to a quick stop after the first contact with the landing surface.

From our experience in Spitzbergen and Alaska last summer it became quite clear that the airplane to be used for a trans-polar flight must be constructed so that they can land and take off equally well from water, ice or snow. The use of either pontoons or skis as landing gear having been deemed impracticable, we decided that a flying boat with special reinforced hull and ski equipment for ice landings would be the best possible construction.

We learned that the Dornier Manufacturing Company of Friedrichshafen, Germany, had already made experiments in this connection, and we found that Dornier was willing, and able, to build the kind of hull which would suit our purpose.

It was first our intention to use three or four of the Dornier Dolphin type of planes, each equipped with one 185 h. p. M. W. engine. But careful calculations showed that the flying radius of these planes would only be under the very best conditions about 700 miles which was entirely inadequate.

The order was therefore changed to two Dornier Whales, each equipped with two Rolls Royce 360 h. p. engines.

These engines are not, as in most twin motor planes, placed in the wings, but are placed in tandem between the wings immediately above the hull. This placing of the motors has the great advantage of enabling the plane to continue its flight even should one of the motors give out.

Both planes will be equipped with wireless receiving and sending sets with an estimated reach of from 400 to 500 miles.

For, which is quite frequent in the Arctic regions during the summer, will be no obstacle to the navigations of the planes as they can always ascend above the fog and find the sun.

But it will be extremely difficult for a plane to find its way back to the base in foggy weather. The motor ship will therefore be equipped with a "balloon captive" and suicide bombs will be sent up above the fog to guide the pilot back to his base.

In Suit

Miss Laura Jacobson, of New York (above) is mentioned in a divorce suit filed by Lady Patricia Ross.

Apart from the usual aeronautical equipment very few instruments will be carried along. For the navigation in the Arctic and the determination of a position only the combination of the sun, the sextant and the chronometer can be relied upon, and nothing else will be used.

Amundsen is indebted to the U. S. Navy for having placed at his disposal the double sextant which is used in the navy for aerial navigation.

Port Arthur Woman's Poem Published In Maine Paper

A poem by Mrs. Joe Corbitt, wife of Captain Joe Corbitt, 3011 Prospect street, in remembrance of her childhood home in Herrington, Maine, where she taught school a number of years ago, was recently published in the Bangor News, of Bangor, Maine.

I love to think of the bygone days
That were first lived in vain,
Of sunny days and sunny ways
In the good old state of Maine.

There is a town that's dear to me,
Where the meadow lands are seen,
And on each side the green hills
Rise to the sky in between.

In memory friends come to me,
The old crowd that I know,
And I am with them as of old,
And planning things to do.

There were parties gotten up by one
Who gave all untold pleasure;
There were skating, sleighing, moonlight rides
And dancing without measure.

I love to think of these dear old days,
Where joy and unbalanced sorrow,
We lived for each day as it came,
And cared not for the morrow.

The friendly greetings in the street,
The gatherings at the store,
The office crowd that nightly met
And talked their troubles o'er.

The old-time friends are scattered,
Both near and far have fled,
And some have come to that strange land,
The "City of the Dead."

Yet still in memory they come,
I open while the door,
And bid them welcome, every one,
As in the days of yore.

TEXAS WOMAN TELLS OF PROBE

Was Asked to 'Get Something On' Caraway

DALLAS, March 15.—Miss Laura Jacobson, Dallas, former secretary to former U. S. Senator William Kirby of Arkansas, told today how she had been employed by Gaston B. Means and asked to help investigate Senator Caraway of Arkansas.

Miss Jacobson said that she was asked to make a "special effort" to get "something" on Caraway.

"Means engaged me for special work on war fraud cases," she said. "I did routine work for a while and then Means asked me to supply information about Senator Caraway."

Means, former investigator for the department of justice, testified before the senate Dautherby committee yesterday in Washington that he had investigated Senator Caraway when the latter criticized the attorney general.

Miss Jacobson said she did not go to Arkansas, but told Means any other citizen in the state could supply him with the information he wanted. She said she had considerable salary due her which she tried in vain to collect. "William J. Burns wrote me that Means was never authorized to investigate Senator Caraway," she said.

Girls to Make Own Dates With Boys for Leap Year Dance Here Next Week When 'Tops and Bottoms' Didn't Win

'Oil Witch' Forecasts Big Gushers Will Be Brought in Near Port Arthur

Seek to Finance Drilling Tests After 'Wizard' Found Oil

HAVE FAITH IN LOCATIONS HERE

Try to Interest Capitalist in Local Project

A FUTURE for Port Arthur in the oil producing world that will rival the famous Lucas gusher and Spindletop when that field was at its palmy days, was forecast here recently by a geologist on location work for local parties. The geologist was here some two weeks ago, but the news of his visit leaked out this week when it became known that parties interested were preparing to finance drilling operations through New York financial interests.

Although the locations designated have been kept secret, it is understood that five spots were pointed out near Port Arthur as places where vast oil deposits were secreted.

Have Faith in Man

Despite the fact that the old timers in the oil fields called the "doodle-bug" these "interviews" in the man's findings here state they have every reason to believe in him, and point to several producers brought in at places designated by this man. The man came into the Sabine district at his own volition, it is claimed, and received no money for his work done here on locations. This, interested parties point out, is taken as an indication that the man is not out for what he can bleed out of his clients.

The power exhibited to the parties interested in examining the locations was somewhat similar to that of a "water witch" seeking water with the aid of a hazel crook. The sole difference in the workings of the "oil-witch" and the man who wields for water being the oil witch doesn't use a stick to determine the location of oil.

Discovers Oklahoma Oil

According to the story the man discovered his remarkable power two or three years ago and through its discovery some of the largest producers in the Oklahoma fields were brought in as the result of his findings.

Because of this peculiarity in the makeup of the oil witch, he cannot control himself when he gets in the vicinity of a large oil deposit and goes into convulsions which last for a period of time.

Guard Location Jealously

Efforts to learn what locations had been pointed out by the oil witch were in vain, the secrets being jealously guarded by those interested. Latest reports stated the oil witch was again back in the Oklahoma fields working on locations for some of the "big companies" in that territory, but would return here for a more extensive survey of this country in the near future.

"I understand that this man has been instrumental in bringing in several producers in other fields," one of the men interested in the venture stated this week, "and we have sufficient faith in him to take his advice concerning the location for drilling."

Wait Till After Easter

Some Port Arthurians aver they never think of taking down their stores and store pipes until after Easter. The weather is never settled until after the season of the spring festival, these men and women claim. Years of "real observation and experience" prove conclusively to them that no one can bank on fickle spring weather. SMALL CRAFTS WARNED OF INCREASING WINDS

Small craft warnings were being out along the Texas coast at 9 p. m. Saturday following receipt of message from Cline, New Orleans weather bureau observer, Ernest Carson, observer at the Port Arthur station said.

The message from Cline was as follows:

"Small craft warning, 9 a. m. Texas coast. Disturbance over western Colorado will move southeast. Increasing southerly winds this afternoon and tonight."

BORROW BABY FOR EXHIBITION

Spirit of Neighborliness Is Still Alive

BABY CLINICS POPULAR

Red Cross Nurses And Doctors Give Aid

Hah! Why no, neighbor, it isn't true that we have lost the spirit of neighborliness.

Of course, the corner grocery is nearer to our homes than the corner grocery was to our grandma's.

And it isn't quite the custom any more for Mrs. Brown to borrow a half a cup of sugar from Mrs. Smith or a couple of eggs from Mrs. Jones.

But show us the necessity for it, and we'll show you that there is just as much neighborly spirit as there used to be. For instance:

Borrowing a Baby

Miss Martha Lawrence, Red Cross nurse, drops in on Mrs. Green and says:

"Mrs. Green, I wonder if you'd mind lending me the baby for a little while?"

And Mrs. Green says:

"Why, no, certainly not, but soles alive, he's just as lively as a little pig. Just look at that dream. I put it on him clean not an hour ago."

Of course, the corner grocery is nearer to our homes than the corner grocery was to our grandma's.

And it isn't quite the custom any more for Mrs. Brown to borrow a half a cup of sugar from Mrs. Smith or a couple of eggs from Mrs. Jones.

Used in Demonstration

Then Miss Lawrence uses him in a demonstration before mothers who have children and others who love them when they attend the children's health clinic Mondays and Wednesdays at the Red Cross hut.

Sometimes the youngster laughs and giggles and sings while it is going on.

Then again he is temperamental and grins his teeth if he has any, wrinkles his nose and talks Egyptian, which every mother knows.

Then, this indicating that he has had something he hadn't ought to have had, or hasn't had something he should have, Miss Lawrence talks of diet and this and that and the next week the little rascal is his old self again.

The child's health clinic is held every Monday and Wednesday, when Port Arthur mothers are invited to bring their babies of any age to school age and have them looked over by Port Arthur physicians who are giving of their time in promoting healthier and better Port Arthur babies.

BUSY WEEK IN SHIPPING DUE

Many Cargoes Expected To Arrive Here

Port Arthur shipping is slated for a busy week starting with next Monday, according to steamship agents here.

Cargo vessels and tankers are scheduled to arrive here bringing cargoes of miscellaneous freight and oil, and others will come in light to load out full cargoes or part cargoes, the agents said today.

The Tampa Inter-Ocean steamship company's steamship, Dryden, not yet out of port at New Orleans, is among the scheduled arrivals for next week, arriving at Tom Ragnal, Port Arthur agent for the Lykes-Schultze line, stating the Dryden will arrive in this port about March 18 to load out cargo for the Far East.

About the middle of the week a Transmarine corporation steamship, the name of which is not yet known, is due to dock at the Conwise docks with miscellaneous freight brought down from Port Newark, New Jersey, for distribution in Port Arthur and throughout the Southwest.

First of the Aluminum line steamships also are expected here during the next week. These vessels, one due March 17, the other March 20, will load for Tampico and Vera Cruz, and Porto Rico. Both ships are of Danish registry. For Morgan, Port Arthur steamship agent, who will handle the ships here, said.

'Look Natural' Says Photographer And Here's What He Got

Port Arthur Gang With Trusty Steed 'Pluto' Harbingers of Spring

Oh, see the funny suits they wear, the trousers and the canes! Now who would ever have a thought that men could be so vain.

Men may come and men may go, but styles change on forever!

Now, that may or may not be just as the famous fellow who wrote that famous assertion would have it spoken these days, but with prices over three times what they were a few years ago, the flappers racing with each other all the while to see who can get the most attention, it is only natural for a few of the men to "step out among 'em," as it were, and have a little race all their own.

And of course, that is the human race, being as it is quite human, according to Horle, for men to crave the latest fashions as well as do the ladies.

So here we have with us "Boss" Taylor, "Crappo" Rodgers, "Cawney" Kelly, "Peanut" Ward and "Sweet Cookie" Cook, posing for The News cameraman. The cameraman said: "Look natural, boys, and everybody looked silly, the camera snapped and the little birdie tweedled and you see what we got."

The "gang" started down Procter toward their trusty steed, "Pluto," found Samuel Sachs of clothing fame, got all dolled up in the latest fads, and proceeded to make the drag a dozen times or so. They've got the very latest low down on the vogues and if you want it, see them.

Walters Find Noon, Shine Boys Night Best Time For Tips

WHAT is the best time of day in Port Arthur to get tips?

Port Arthur waiters and waitresses declare the noon hour is the best time, that tips average higher at noon than any other time in the day, as a rule, and that generally speaking they are "rather few and far between" anyway.

But the day of tips isn't passed yet. People are still as liberal as they ever were when it comes to shining shoes, so over the shine boys, who disagree altogether with the waiters, and declare evenings are the best tip-hours.

CITY DADS DEAF TO BONE PLEA

'Chow' They Cry When Mah Jongg Is Assailed

Despite attempts of a local organization to starve off the fate of the Texas steer whose bones are beginning to find their way to the Mah Jongg factories of China, the steer seems destined to go.

Because of the close association between the early history of the development of this great state the deer raising industry, it was felt, in certain circles, that someone was ringing in a cold deck on the steer when no attempt was made to stop the traffic in bones.

This week the Patrick Henry touched here out of Galveston and bound for China with three carloads of bones stowed away. These were destined for consumption in the Mah Jongg factories of China.

About the same time the steamer touched here with the bones, an effort was made to get the city commission to take steps to stem the tide of bones going out of this country into China.

The city dads, however, shrugged their collective shoulders and said, "Cheer."

The committee appointed to wait on the city commission took this to be a signal to disburse for dinner and left without securing any aid from the commission.

They Sang Standing On Their Heads, But Curtain Fell Down

They stood on their heads and sang that Barney Google quartet in the Port Arthur Lions Club, and visitors from Port Neches and veteran Lions of Port Arthur were amazed at the feat Friday at the luncheon at the Plaza hotel, until:

Red Tucker, J. W. Walling and Red Paschal, each wearing shoes and socks on their hands and arms, were revealed as the Barney Googles.

Another feature stunt of the luncheon was put over by Rev. R. H. Yelderman, pastor of the First Christian church, who challenged the club's "strong man," Gene Gifford and J. L. Donnelly, to a test of their muscles. Rev. Yelderman took a pencil in his hand, and dared them to prevent him from placing the pencil in his mouth. They couldn't.

BOYS TO LEARN OWN POPULARITY

Lady Slippers Club Will Be Dance Hostesses

CHANCE FOR BACHELORS

If They Don't Get Proposals It's Their Fault

All right, fellows, here's where we find out just how popular WE are.

On Monday, March 24, in the Department Club house the Lady Slippers club of Port Arthur will present Moody's Gloom Chasers in a real leap year dance.

And, listen, fellows, here's how the whole affair will be conducted:

The invitations to the dance will be mailed the girls of the city by the Lady Slippers club.

Girls who receive invitations will make the dance engagements.

On the evening of the dance, they will call for their gentlemen companions, meeting the young men at their places of residence.

Arriving at the Department Club, the girls will pay the entrance fee and fill out the programs of their male escorts.

After the first number of each set, the girls will tag.

Now, if some old-fashioned lady-and-seek bachelor doesn't get a proposal or two during the evening, it won't be the fault of the Lady Slippers Club, for they have arranged this dance, the first of its kind during the leap year, to conform with the legends of the time.

NEGROES DENY WHEEL THEFT

Each Accuses Other And Case Is Continued

"Who, me? Whoa man, youah mostest certainly is misinformed, whoa lawdy, ah ain't stole no wheel. Man ah heint no tief, a woks for uh livin' eva day at de Guffie. You stole dat wheel youah ownself."

"Who, me? Whoa man, youah mostest certainly is misinformed. Whoa lawdy, ah ain't stole no wheel. Man ah heint no tief, ah woks for mah livin' at de Guffie. Dis yeah guy tooked dat bisikee."

Well, anyway a wheel was missing and negro No. 1 was found with it in his possession. Negro No. 2, had told him to go ahead and use it.

How'd he get it? Why negro No. 3 asked him if he could leave it at his house all night, but negro No. 1, gave it to negro No. 2.

So like the man who said:

"I ain't got no dog to bite you in the first place and in the second place he had a right to bite you cause you was in my garden and in the third place I ain't got no dog to bite you in the first place."

MILTON TELLS WHEN PROCTER WAS SO WILD

First Pair of Crooked Dice in Port Arthur Mopped Up On Pay Days Until Jim Took Too Many Drinks, and Then—

BY ROGER Wm. ARCHER The Port Arthur News Staff

"Gimme a light, lad, gimme a light, and since you want another 'feature yarn,' I've got a good one to tell you."

John Milton, who prefers to be called "plain Johnny" because he says he's not old just because he's "gettin' along in years," accepted the proffered match, struck it deliberately beneath his mahogany desk and puffed on the good Havana that always makes him tell his best stories.

"Seems like I can just picture the old guard back 'on duty,' as we used to say, when I'm pulling a drag on my Havanas, kid, and, well, cigars and good drinks and good stories all go together, don't they, eh?"

Back in Days of '60

And then Johnny began to spin the tale of "gamblin' days on Procter street when few words was fightin' words."

"It was back in 1904," Johnny began, "in the days of the old 'Sixty-talk to them bones." He knew every phrase in crap-ology, I guess, and a whole lot more that's been obsolete for years."

Prays to the Bones

"I'd been the rumkin uncle of Alkali ever since he came to town. He didn't work much—neither did I in 1904—so we kinda fell in together, me and Alkali. Well, one day I happened in a gamblin' joint on Procter, and found Alkali in a back room, right down on his knees, prayin' to those bones of his, and all around him was other fellows apparently extremely interested in those same bones. Nobody noticed me much when I come in, but after I'd watched that game a little while and saw th' greens changin' hands, my own palms kinda itched to feel th' dice, so I picked 'em up."

"And right then when I got noticed, I caught Alkali eyin' me kinda funny, and then he gave a hurried look around, saw that nobody was noticein' and slipped me th' wink."

"Well, I failed to catch th' meaning of that wink, and first thing I know, I'd parted with a saw-buck. But when I'd parted with that ten-spot, wasn't necessary for Alkali to wink again. I figured there must be somethin' wrong with somethin'."

How Crooked Dice Worked

"And so they was. After that game, Alkali drifted up front, my arm and showed me a roll of long greens. Then Alkali and I left the joint and I got the low down on them craps. Alkali showed me they was tops and bottoms, crooked, he had three dice, two of 'em was straight, and he said he always kept his first shot with the straight ones, and if he threw a natural, he just kept shootin' till he got his point; then when he'd found a point to make, he slopped in the third die, which was crooked, and which couldn't make a natural. It looked easy to hear Alkali tell it, but one day his little game did it work."

"That was about four months later, Alkali had been gannin' a gang of niggers every Saturday; Saturday was pay-day for the niggers and pay-day for me and Alkali, for since he'd let me in on his little game, I'd been helpin' him run the game on the niggers."

"Well this was another pay-day. There must have been about 10 blacks in that game that day, and me and Alkali, Alkali'd been drinkin' pretty heavy, along as the game progressed, but I didn't notice it so much, and the pile of greens kept growin' bigger. I had no objections—kinda havin' a hankerin' for a drink now and then, meast, wasn't natural for me to pay much attention to his drinkin' anyhow."

And Then It Happened

"Well, th' game had gone pretty well, and we'd collected close to 300 iron men, when Alkali up and pushed out half th' pile and eyes 'snot all or any part of it, kinda dramatic like. Th' piggers faded it every bit, though they was a little slow on gettin' on, and then Alkali aimed his right fist high above his head, cackled them bones, said 'don't be craps, dice, don't be craps,' shifted his hand from high to low and rolled."

"And—wasn't that think he rolled?"

"Boy, he rolled all THIRTEEN dice right out on th' floor!"

"It was murder—that shot was. A few of them niggers turned loose low gutters/sounds—some said 'lawd, lawd,' and then they started makin' a wild dive for that money. Alkali rolled up—put his hand back to his hip, sorta threatenin' like, and said: 'Don't touch a dime, niggers, don't touch a dime—' and he was the soberest crap-shooter that ever ran a bluff when he pulled that one. Th' niggers backed off, and Alkali ordered me to pick up th' jack while he kept threatenin' to draw somethin' from his hip, and we both backed out and hit a hot trail for North Procter."

"Well, Alkali, blamed bones for them three dice shootin' up when he oughta just shot two of 'em."

CRAP-ology

ARE you familiar with the "lingo" of the dice game?

Since "Chinese craps" have come to this country in the form of mah jongg, and since "John Milton," former gambler and "race track book-maker," has dug up the first pair of "tops and bottoms" that were brought to Port Arthur and placed on the gaming table, the game of dice and its own "lingo" has become a thing of the past.

With another of Milton's tales of the earlier gambling history of this vicinity, Johnny says there's a "lingo" for everything, especially for "craps."

A seven or an eleven thrown the first shot, Johnny says, is a "natural." The double ace, according to double six, thrown the first shot is a "crap."

Money is "kale seed," "iron," or "jack."

Crooked dice are referred to as "tops and bottoms," or "doe-nope."

To "fade the board" is to place even or odd money against the man with the dice.

A face is called "little Joe," a fire is known as "fever," a ten is familiarly termed "big dick from Boston," the double ace is sometimes called "snake-eyes," and the double six "rat-rows" or "two-rows."

Six as the boys will familiarly recall it by, when things was wide open in Port Arthur, and saloons was heavin' th' drinks over th' bar.

"I had a good partner in these days, a really good partner, well, call 'im 'Alkali Jim' just for old times sake, because I haven't seen 'im in a coon's age, and Jim might get sore if I really spilled his regular monicker here to you."

"Now in those days when Procter was a roused road and shell hadn't been born to be street, I was about to make the rulin' easier, cards was the big gamblin' game outside of the Sunday horse-racin' and the regular county fairs, where they had all kinds of 'skin-flin' acts; but Alkali was stronger for craps."

"Know what craps is, kid?"

"You mean dice, Mr. Milton?"

"Yeah—like as if you didn't know the game yourself! Well, that's Alkali Jim's game, and I reckon Alkali brought the first pair of 'tops and bottoms' to town that Port Arthur ever had rolled out on 'er."

"Well, that's the cause of my narrative—them tops and bottoms dice that Alkali brought to town. I found 'em in an old trunk out at th' house the other day, and thought y'd be interested in th' first pair of real crooked craps that ever came to town. Thought it might make an interesting tale to tell you some of th' history of them bones."

And Milton reached in an inner pocket of his coat, drew forth his hands and presented to his auditor some bright red cubes which proved to be the "bones" to which he had referred.

"There they are, kid. Th' first crooked dice as ever graced the hardwoods of a bumpin' board."

"Well, to get along with my narrative, as I was saying, this dice game was Alkali's game. He tried his hand a little at poker, contributed a lot frequently—but this dice game was his. When poker money got low, Alkali got in a dice game—and boy, you oughta heard Alkali

THE SUNDAY NEWS' SOCIAL AND CLUB PAGE

Hospital Board Benefit Dance at Department Club Will Be Delightful Affair

TOMORROW'S the jolly Irish festival day, and in honor of good St. Patrick there's to be many a merry party. And such an endless amount of Irish folklore and tradition there is from which to obtain suggestions for St. Patrick's Day decorations.

Green and white are the most attractive color scheme, but about the only available green flower is the white carnation. Hostesses agree that no lovelier effect could be desired than arranging these delicate blossoms in shamrock-shaped baskets. Another artistic arrangement, even more beautiful, is a mass of the green and white flowers arranged together in a large vase, forming the central ornament of the table. The little red and white daisies, white and green bonbons of shamrock design, and much to the decorative theme, as do the Irish flags and shillalabs, any of which make charming and acceptable favors.

And these lovely green and white effects are to be displayed tomorrow evening at the St. Patrick's dance to be given at the Department Club. The affair promises to be an unusually delightful event and will be sponsored by members of the Woman's Hospital Board.

The St. Patrick's theme will harmonize beautifully with the attractive club rooms. A delightful informality will feature the dance, music for which will be furnished by Moody's Gloom Chorus' orchestra.

Tables will be arranged in the campfire girls' room for those desiring to play bridge, and prizes will be awarded for both ladies' and gentlemen's high score. The bridge table appointments will also feature the St. Patrick's theme.

Mrs. H. K. Goodwin is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the dance, and is being assisted by Mrs. J. B. Saint, Mrs. J. E. Biggers, Mrs. J. H. Latimer, Mrs. D. P. Sheeks, Mrs. J. H. Burlington, Mrs. H. W. McLeod, and Mrs. F. L. Teulon.

But Times Changed For Jesse's Aide

"BILLY" STILES, EX-BANDIT
By JACK JUNGMEYER
News Service Writer

GLENDAL, Calif., March 13.—The only surviving member of Jesse James' gang is here—reformed.

William Stiles is a disturbing refutation of the proverb that you can't straighten the bent bough.

Billy in boyhood and prime was as crooked a bough as was ever fashioned by the storms of outlawry. Today, at the age of 74, is as straight a human tree as ever weathered the sun.

He does odd jobs on a farm and writes a book between chores. "I was had from the time I can first remember," explains Stiles. "I started stealing as soon as I could walk."

But when he reached that age when most men consider their lives unalterably fixed, Stiles began to delve into the gospel instead of bank vaults and mail pouches.

His first crime was at 14. He robbed a drunken man. He ran away from home and went to a New York

CONRADE OF JESSE JAMES

"legging school," where he mastered pickpocketing.

After he had stolen a horse in Kentucky—a gallop offense in those days—he decided to go the limit and joined the James' gang.

"My initiation was pretty rough," he recalls. "They sent me out on an errand along the trail."

"Soon I saw men—sheriffs' deputies. I thought—surround me. I thought I was lost. When they asked me if I belonged to the James' gang, I couldn't say 'yes' because I thought they would hang me. And if I said 'no,' I figured the gang would kill me. So I refused to answer."

"They put a rope around my neck and hoisted me clear of the ground several times. Finally they released me and I returned to the camp. I found the James' gang around the camp fire, laughing. They had put me in the test and I had not flinched."

'Little Old New York' With Marion Davies and Constance Talmadge in 'Dulcy' Week's Film Features

Here's Who's Who in the Pictures Today

Left, Constance Talmadge at Strand today in "Dulcy," showing the star in the role of a dumb-bell.
Right center, scene from "The Ragged Edge," starring Alfred Lunt and Mimi Palmeri, at the Peoples theater today.
Right, Marion Davies as she appears in "Little Old New York," starting a several days' run at the Peoples theater Tuesday.

CONNIE MAKES GOOD BONEHEAD

Young 'Spills the Beans' To Delight of Fans

The Strand theater is presenting a picture which will give the tired business man supreme satisfaction, which his wife, sons and daughters, and their kiddies will find delight in. We recommend Constance Talmadge's latest picture, "Dulcy," to all of them. Here is rich humor in abundance, amusement for everybody, a sparkling film that the censors had no cause to slip the shears through—but the Constance Talmadge pictures are always bright and cheery and devoid of sex complexities.

"Dulcy" is a dumb-bell. Constance makes her very personification of a bonehead—with enthusiasm. She plays the role of a young wife whose forte is to spill the beans. She is imbued with a desire to help and only succeeds in hindering. The effect of her stupidity comes when she thinks a woman's wit and intuition would be a powerful ally in her husband's affairs, and seeks to interject hers into them, almost ruining him. Just how the situation is relieved is one of the best laughs of the picture, and we'll let you enjoy it.

Miss Talmadge has played so many roles so well that it is difficult to say which has been her best. We may venture the assertion that none have been better than her "Dulcy," which she plays with a simplicity and spontaneity which is delightful. Her supporting cast, we are certain, has never been better. Jack Mulhall plays opposite the star in his usual able manner. Johnny Harvon, as her brother, gives a finished performance. Charlie Gillogwater, Gilbert Douglas, Andre DeBaron, May Wilson, Anne Cornwall and Milla Davenport are well cast for their roles.

Sidney A. Franklin's intelligent direction from the Emerson-Loss adaptation of the play, splendidly done, makes of "Dulcy" a picture more than worthwhile.

The world's largest glass statue is a figure of Shakespeare, 24 feet high, that has been cast in England for a London park.

'Streets of New York' Has Many Thrills

If you like a picture that thrills with action, moves at a rapid pace and gives you a thrill a minute, don't miss "The Streets of New York," a new Arrow release, which opens at the Liberty Theatre soon.

The cast is uniformly excellent. Edward Earle, as Paul Fairweather, does splendid work, while Barbara Castleman is appealingly beautiful. Kate Blanche in the role of the mother paints a vivid and compelling portrait. Anders Randolf contributes another of his dependable characterizations and Leslie King, last seen as "Joe's Boy," in "The Streets of New York," has won many honors by his playing of "Buck."

'RAGGED EDGE' HAS TWO STARS

Alfred Lunt and Mimi Palmeri in Leads

Alfred Lunt and Mimi Palmeri are playing the leading roles in "The Ragged Edge," the production of the Distinctive Pictures corporation based on Harold MacGrath's story, which will appear at the Peoples theater next week.

The more histories of these two stars are sufficient warrant for the public to want to see them, but that isn't all they have to offer. "The Ragged Edge" is a vital story of two young people who get into a barrel of trouble individually and save themselves by joining their interests—in marriage. In addition to being a marvelous love story, "The Ragged Edge" is also a spectacle pictorially.

Alfred Lunt only recently made his screen debut in "Backbone," also produced by Distinctive and distributed by Goldwyn. He started as an actor at an early age, getting experience in England and later at his college in America. After leaving school, Mr. Lunt went to Boston and was engaged by the Castle Square Stock company. While with them he came to the attention of Margaret Anglin, who took him with her in "Beverly's Balance." After two or three seasons of stock, Mr. Lunt was seen by Booth Tarkington, who promptly got the inspiration for the great Broadway success, "Clarence." In this play Lunt sprang into fame overnight. Two years later he signed up with Distinctive and has been with them now for two pictures.

Miss Palmeri's Cinderella-like rise to stardom has been one of the greatest romances of the motion picture industry. Mrs. Arthur S. Friend, wife of the president of Distinctive, noticed Miss Palmeri's picture in "The Style magazine," for which she had posed as a fashion model. Mrs. Friend sent the girl to her husband and tests were taken. It was found that Miss Palmeri was a perfect subject, had a wonderful camera face and above all, marvelous natural talent as an actress. Mrs. Friend was so enthusiastic about this young actress that he immediately gave her the leading role in this production, "The Ragged Edge."

The typewriter now has been adapted to the language, the last being a Romanized version of a Chinese dialect spoken in Annam.

'Little Old New York' With Marion Davies Is Story Of Refreshing Sweetness

A PHOTOPLAY that has never been surpassed for heart-felt tenderness, romance and sprightly comedy is Marion Davies' new Cosmopolitan picture, "Little Old New York," which has been booked by Manager Holton for an engagement of five days at the Peoples theater, beginning Tuesday. Miss Davies in the dual role of Patricia and Pat O'Day, was said by the newspaper critics of New York, London, Toronto, Los Angeles and other cities where it was first shown, to have scored new pantomime and acting heights and to have achieved a success caused by the constant battle between her natural feminine instincts and her determination to assume a boyish swag. The big spectacular climax comes when the daring Pat is rescued from a mob of 1,000 men who wanted to whip her, for having stopped a prize fight by ringing a fire bell to help the man she loves from losing the money he had wagered on the result. This money was needed to finance Robert Fulton's new invention of the steamboat.

STRONG CAST IN PEOPLES THEME

Comedy Drama At Peoples Is Unusual

Rivalling in importance and ability the strongest cast ever assembled in any motion picture in recent years, William C. de Mille's latest Paramount picture production, "The Marriage Maker," will be the leading feature at the Peoples theatre for two days beginning today. Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt play the featured roles. In their support are Charles de Roche, Robert Agnew and Mary Astor.

Others who portray important parts are Ethel Wales and Bertram Johns. "The Marriage Maker" was adapted by Clara Beranger from Edward Knoblock's play, "The Faun," in which William Faversham starred for several years. It is a delightful comedy-drama and a startlingly unusual picture. It has for its central situation the adventures of a mysterious being, human yet almost like a Faun, which comes to live among a group of civilized and sophisticated persons. This Faun knows only the elemental instincts of love, hate, fear, and the like and is little more than an animal in his simplicity.

Seena Owens Says Cats Can Think, Reckon Time

A beautiful white Persian cat is used in the early scenes of "The Leavenworth Case," a Whitman Bennett Production, which will be shown at the Peoples Theatre on Tuesday through Friday. The feline is one of the few that will do what it is told without coaxing and has frequently played difficult roles in motion pictures and stage plays.

Seena Owens, who has the leading female role in the production, became much attached to the cat and between scenes discussed the traits of felines as compared with other animals.

"Cats can think and reckon time," declared Miss Owens.

"Do you expect me to believe that?" asked Wilfred Lytell.

"I can prove it," explained Miss Owens. "When I was a small girl I lived in a suburban territory and had a pet cat. Every Friday at 10 o'clock a fish man passed on the next block and stopped to clean some fish. He would throw the heads and tails to our cat. After this had been done several times the fish man always found the cat waiting for him on Friday morning."

"We tried several experiments but the cat would not go to the corner except on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. It never missed and it never made a mistake. Now doesn't that show that cats have an instinct for time?"

BANANA SONG WRITER COMING

Frank Silvers Brings Brilliant Company

Frank Silver, himself, writer and composer of the most popular song hit the world has ever known "Yes, We Have No Bananas" has been booked to appear here on Thursday, March 21, matinee and night at the Elks Theater.

Silver will bring with him his brilliant company of singers, dancers and entertainers and his famous Symphonic Jazz Orchestra, which has created a furore in New York this season. Unquestionably the speediest and smartest revue on tour, this organization has scored one of the greatest hits in recent years. The famous song itself has been sung around the globe, and has been translated into every language, even Chinese. Every photograph company has recorded the great song hit in every conceivable way, with orchestra, band, solo, in song, story and parody. Several musical comedies have been written and the title of the song and the royalties already earned by the writer are said to have reached a half-million dollars. The supporting artists with Frank Silver compose the original company, which is booked for a transcontinental tour, which opened in Boston. The company is making only a few stops enroute to the Pacific Coast, from whence they sail for the Orient. Every song hit of the day, from Broadway, will be represented in the program here, and an evening of joyous synchronized melody, dancing and song is promised all those who love gay and popular music, interpreted by the greatest of present-day musicians and entertainers.

LONGHORN BAND HERE THURSDAY

Doc Eckdahl Will 'Strut His Stuff' Here

Doc Eckdahl, world war veteran and member of the faculty of the University of Texas, and one of the most experienced members of the Austin Community Players has made arrangements to make the annual trip with the Longhorn Band to Port Arthur Thursday, Mr. Eckdahl, who will make the tour in the capacity of stage manager, has starred in several productions of the Community Players, and his stage settings worked out for the plays received much favorable mention by the newspapers.

Eckdahl is negotiating with the Austin Community Players for the use of some of their props. He is planning to use special scenery with every act presented by the musicians, and the skit which was worked out by the stage manager compares exceptionally well with the acts presented by experienced vaudeville players.

The band will carry practically all their scenery and props, according to Eckdahl, and will carry extra men to assist with the presentation of the program.

The University of Texas Longhorn Band and Varsity Premier Entertainers will show at the Franklin Auditorium Thursday under the auspices of Forty and Eight Society of The American Legion.

MEAN, ROUGH, READY MATE IS DISPLEASING

BALTIMORE, March 17.—Mrs. Jennie Weidner, 20 years old, Laundress, Md. has been granted a divorce by Judge Stein in circuit court from Henry Weidner, whom she described as "mean, rough and ready."

Mrs. Weidner, who was married when she was 15, brought the action through her mother, Mrs. Ethel Weidner. She declared she has been separated from Weidner since April, 1921, when she said, his mother drove her away from the home they were occupying together.

Previous to separation, according to Mrs. Weidner, her husband drove by the house every evening in his automobile filled with women who shouted her name as they passed.

JOHN STEPHANIE KOVAK International Dance Star, formerly with the Chicago Grand Opera Co., now with the Frank Silver Revue of 1924, coming to the Elks Theater, matinee and night, Friday, March 21.

'The Cat and the Canary' Coming to Elks Thursday Is Replete With Thrills

At the Elks Theater, one night, Thursday, March 20, Kilbourn Gordon, Inc., presents one of the best entertainments of the present season. It is a drama in three acts, "The Cat and the Canary," by John Willard, produced when mystery plays were supposed to be passé. "The Cat and the Canary" is such a success that it has been and is being played in theaters all over the country. "The Cat and the Canary" will be found an exquisite blending of thrills, comedy and romance which entrances the public for three hours. The speed of the performance is so great that time slips by and the ending of the play comes all too soon.

The story of "The Cat and the Canary" has to do with the heiress named in the will of an eccentric relative. She must be sane of sound health, and there is a conflict of the will, yet unopened, which names an other heir in the event that the girl does not prove acceptable. There are five other heirs and one of them seeks to get the fortune from the girl. The story is so deftly told, the situations so natural, the people are plain like near neighbors—and the result is, an entertainment which, it is said, cannot be excelled.

There is an excellent company coming here to enact "The Cat and the Canary." Playgoers who saw the play before and then enjoyed the performance by this company state that a better performance of "The Cat and the Canary" has never been given. The production is an exact duplicate of that used during the long engagements of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston. The cast includes: Elsie Hitz, Robert Toms, Alma Kruger, William Bonell, Antonette Roebke, Harry Oldroyd, M. B. Bridges, Bertha Lowe, Roy La Rue and Robert A. Bennett.

Narrow Prejudice The Basis of Plot In "That Woman"

Plot is of great importance in "That Woman," the new dramatic picture which comes to the Liberty theater, beginning Thursday, with Catherine Calvert as the star. Plot is paramount because there is much of it. There is plot in every scene and the climax is a big one.

"That Woman" tells the story of a proud old-fashioned father's attempts to break up a family. The family is really his own for it is his son's wife to whom he objects. He would separate her from the husband who loves her. It is an old tale of affairs.

The father's animosity is not based on personal dislike for his son's wife, but because she is an actress in the profession he does not take into account that she is an exceptional actress and a woman above reproach. He only determines to get rid of her.

His first resource is money. He tempts her with a large sum she refuses it. But when the father declares she is spoiling his son's life the wife's resolution weakens. She promises to invent an excuse for leaving her husband. Yet she cannot stand the test. She has not the heart to lie. So the father is more furious than ever.

Monday's festivities will start with a street parade. It will be on the streets at noon.

Elephants To Lead A big herd of elephants will tread the route, and of camels, zebras, zebras, sacred cattle, yaks and other "wild" animals will be in legion. Dozens of open cages will disclose their jungle inmates and trainers. Hundreds of equines, ranging from the powerful plumed draft and Percherons, and Clydesdales, thoroughbred chariot harts and ring horses to the

CIRCUS ARRIVES THIS MORNING

Christy Bros. Show Will Spend Two Days Here

Tomorrow is the day when juvenile dreams come true and the old become young again. Such day, the day of an orgy for the kiddies, is reckoned about on par with Fourth of July and Christmas. This morning about the same time that the milkman is making his rounds, the Christy Bros. Trained Wild Animal Exhibition will make its appearance from Beaumont in the railroad yards and in short time after the arrival of the circus will have been erected. The circus will spend both Sunday and Monday here.

It is said to be the most novel exhibition of trained animals ever seen. Two dogs, two sheep and two ponies compose a sextette that work in harmony in the same arena. A double summer-saulting dog on the back of a swift moving pony. This dog is said to be the world's greatest canine acrobatic wonder. The football horses are another feature. These beautiful steeds play a game of football and it is just as exciting as a college event. A woman wrestling a lion is a new added feature and there is an abundance of smaller and entertaining animal events.

The opening feature of the show this year is a beautiful and original spectacle, called, "Noah and the Ark." A most spectacular and pleasing Biblical event in which nearly five hundred people will appear. A number of novelties appear at different intervals and the singing and dancing numbers are all in keeping with the fascinating story enacted. Of course, there will be the usual array of clowns with original and laughable stunts.

Hospital authorities said today Beauchamp is resting well, and the bullet which entered his chest and ruptured outward into the shoulder, lodging just under the skin, will be removed Monday. Nothing indicating the cause of the shooting was brought out in the hearing before Judge Pace, at Sabine, today, word from Sabine stated, and Beauchamp has refused to make any statement on the affair. EFFIE CHERRY NOW CANDIDATE

Vaudeville Star of 20 Years Ago Reformer

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 15.—Effie Cherry, 25 years ago one of America's best known vaudeville stars, has returned to the footlights. Her act, then was considered so bad it was a riot. It packed the house.

But her act has changed. She's quit the old sentimental songs and male impersonations for a little political skill—all her own—entitled, "Why I Should Be Mayor."

Here in Cedar Rapids, where she and her sisters, Addie and Jessie, started on the road to fame under a shower of overripe vegetables and eggs some 30 years ago, she is making her second debut. Again she is the headliner on the Majestic theater bills. Her audiences, though, are different than they used to be. The old classed drop, which once shielded the famous Cherry Sisters from the bouquies sent down from "higger heaven" is missing now. Today the crowds leave their "flower" at home. The boys and girls of Effie's heyday are considerable older now.

"They ought to be home by 9 o'clock," Candidate Effie insists. "And they will be, if I'm made mayor. I'm going to start a curfew law."

"I'm going to clean up the city and see that the residence districts are protected. The traffic cops will have their stations switched, and there's going to be municipal parking stations."

"And I'm going to see that folks get pure drinking water instead of rediffled rubbing alcohol and Iowa's rotten corn whiskey."

"Furthermore, I'm going to put women on the police force. It's time we had them there."

"This town needs a thorough scrubbing. And it's going to get it, if I've anything to say."

CHILD LABOR FIGHT IS BITTER

Obstacles Thrown in Way Of Law's Passage

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Innumerable obstacles are being thrown in the path of the proposed child-labor amendment.

Its sponsors are facing a stiff fight to preserve it in its original phraseology.

For, in certain quarters, attempts are being made to entangle it with conflicting clauses that will tend to make its operations difficult, according to Senator Samuel M. Shortridge of California.

The Californian is chairman of the subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, before which the plan is pending.

The amendment was drawn simply to empower congress to prohibit employment of children under a certain age. This, without an amendment, the Supreme court previously had held congress hadn't the authority to do.

It was a perfectly plain amendment. But now it's been amended in such a way that it reads like this:

"Section 1. The Congress shall have power to prohibit the labor of persons under the age of 18 years and to prescribe the conditions of such labor."

"Section 2. The power of the several states is unimpaired by this article except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by congress."

At present an effort is being made to amend the amendment, so as to provide specifically that national laws shall take precedence over the state legislation.

It's always been recognized that they do, so this is unnecessary. In Senator Shortridge's opinion the latest change is proposed solely with a view to complicating and obscuring matters sufficiently to justify attacks on future laws.

In any event the constitutional amendment, in itself, doesn't prohibit child labor, which eliminates the possibility, pointed to by its opponents, that it will prevent the employment of labor, under the age of eighteen, outside school hours. As in the case of the 18th amendment, for example, an enforcement act, such as the Volstead law, must be provided before existing conditions are altered.

Opposition to the amendment, according to Senator Shortridge, is chiefly in the south. The states rights issue is raised, however, not only in the southern but in some of the northern states.

Port Arthur Ford Dealer Takes Part in Nation Wide Car Sales Contest

LOCAL DEALER HOPES TO WIN

Trip to Detroit Promised Best Salesman

The Ford Motor company has inaugurated a nationwide salesman contest for month of March, according to report given out by Linn Motor company; the 24 best salesmen in the country being awarded trips to Detroit. The Detroit trips will include inspections of all departments and divisions, with all expenses paid.

Accepts Virginia Challenge

In this contest, Port Arthur's Ford sales force has been challenged by Danville, Va., the first dealer of that city stating that his city could show more Ford cars and trucks in March than would Port Arthur. The Virginia dealer also said he would send one of his representatives to Detroit, which is gravely disputed by members of Linn Motor company.

With Danville chosen as the local company's official contestant, another company's challenge has been accepted as a side bet to make the game more interesting, manager of the local organization said last night. It all came about like this:

Another Contest Begins

The Ford Company at Houston sent this wire to Port Arthur:

"Galbreath Motor company Omaha City dealer challenged one of our dealers, and we panel you in place of dealer in larger city; this wire just received from Omaha branch. Galbreath wanted your dealer have large enough estimate to make it interesting, but if Linn in village of 20,000 insists on getting trimmed, Galbreath being from south himself will accommodate him. He says, however, tell Linn get out of way and let somebody run who knows how. We are counting on you."

In answer, this is Linn Motor company's response:

"Wire Galbreath he made two mistakes, first when he left the south and came to Omaha, second mistake when he challenged Linn Motor company. We accept. Will place side bet if he feels lucky."

And Galbreath feels lucky. Which makes the race all the more interesting.

In connection with the double-sales race, Ford owners who submit prospective sales to local salesman with the result that a sale is transacted, will be rewarded with Ford accessories. A drawing contest has also been planned for Ford owners on March 31, prizes to be awarded owners holding lucky numbers.

TWO DANGEROUS TYPES

The pedestrian is oftentimes as much of a fool as the automobile driver, but that's no alibi for the careless motorist. There are still a great many people who are antagonistic to those who drive cars, and that is all the more reason why the wise driver makes every effort to win the good will of those who must invariably dodge him.

These thoughts are the result of a significant incident recently observed in an eastern city. It was on the occasion of a dark night in a section of the city where motor cars customarily travel fast and where few pedestrians cross. There is every reason to believe that a certain driver did not see that a certain pedestrian was trying to board a street car, but that did not obviate what happened and did not in any way excuse the driver from rushing past the street car when he should have anticipated that something might happen.

In a moment of rage the pedestrian

WHAT KIND OF BRAKES? Any of Five Systems May Be Used on Four Wheels

BY ISRAEL KLEIN News Writer

Four wheel brakes—yes, but, having generally accepted there is more or less necessary equipment on our automobiles, the controversy now turns to the kind of brakes to be adopted.

There is the internal expansion type.

The external contracting brake.

The hydraulic brake.

The compressed air system.

And, of late, the electrically-operated brake.

There are variations of these, such as a combination of internal and external types on one car, but these five contain the underlying principle of brakes for all wheels, at the present time and for some time to come.

Options Vary

Engineers differ over the advantages of each type. The engineer for a car using the hydraulic brake will bring up the point that here, and here only, can the driver be certain of direct, positive brake action. That the foot pressure is needed in proportion to the amount of pressure put against the wheels, and that the durability of the mechanism is almost limitless.

Yet advocates of the internal, and of the external, friction types will come forward with the claim that here are the truer types of brakes. That with these, the friction on the front wheels can be adjusted to slightly less force than that on the rear wheels, to prevent locking of the steering wheels. That if one-fourth of the mechanism gets out of order, the remaining three-fourths can still be applied for braking—which cannot be claimed for the hydraulic system.

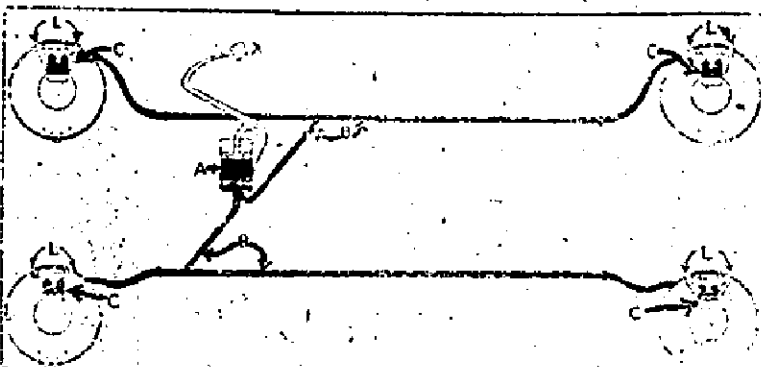

Push or Pull?

There is also a difference of opinion between the users of the internal expansion and the external contracting brakes. Between users of cables from pedals to brakes, and those relying on rods connecting these parts.

The question, between the first two groups, is "Does the PUSH of internal brakes result in greater or less brakeage than the PULL of the external type?"

And the argument between the cable and the rod advocates resolves hurling a lighted cigar at the driver of the car. If the cigar had been a brick he would have hurled it just the same.

Simplified diagram of hydraulic brake action, as presented by Edward S. Jordan, auto manufacturer, Port Arthur, N. operates on master cylinder. A, master cylinder; B, four wheel cylinders; C, operating small levers; D, pulling the air brakes around each drum.

into a difference between cable stretching and rod rattling.

Compressed air brakes have been popular for some time, but the difficulty with these, has been their excessive friction capacity. Air, however, enough to stop a train, soon have to be controlled much more fully before it can be applied safely to comparatively light automobiles.

A Newcomer

There is the electric brake, under control of electromagnetic action at each wheel, has made its appearance recently. That needs just the touch of a button for their application.

No information has yet reached here as to how such brakes could be controlled in varying degree. Perhaps a rheostat arrangement is included in the mechanism. Or perhaps, the system relies on direct and full application, at short intervals, instead of slight prolonged brakeage that can be applied on other systems.

CRY OF THE DAY

Most proof of the growing popularity of motor transportation is seen in the development of cities and, particularly, in the revisions being made in the principal streets.

In many places sidewalks have been made half the former width while streets have been widened accordingly. Before many of these changes were made many arguments were offered to the effect that the sidewalks narrower would be to greatly inconvenience the pedestrian. But now that the results are known everyone is ready to admit that, instead of looking over-crowded, the sidewalks in many places look lonesome. Everybody is motoring. Less pavement and more street is the cry of the day, because the sidewalks are decreasing in importance.

SILENT MOTORS ARE DANGEROUS

Drivers Must Use Care in Crowded Places

The quieter motor cars run the more sure drivers seem to forget that silence is a danger that must be compensated for by means of more careful driving and closer attention to the business of driving.

Time was when another car could be heard several hundred feet away, its deep rumble in hollow of speeding road, but nowadays an 80-horsepower machine can glide up to your rear, closer and get half way by before you notice it. Thus, unless a driver is prepared to anticipate such possibility, he is very likely to steer into the center of the road and throw the driver of the other car into the ditch. Silence would be the explanation of it, but the initial causes of circumstances are not always the same. Silence in motor cars has been a blessing in a number of ways, and if it is a danger motor to do so to remove the possibility of forgetting that it is a danger. If each driver would simply remember that he is no longer warned of the presence of machines because the cars themselves fail to make a big noise about it there would be more generous footing of horns and, naturally, fewer surprises.

Silence may be golden, but the motorist should recall that the old maxim may have some reference to the condition of the highways in the hereafter. Most motorists agree that the highways here, while far from perfect, hold a number of advantages for the time being. The disagreement is over the method of making allowances for the hazards of silence. A good rule to follow when you don't hear another car is to imagine one. It's the sort of disappointment that carries no remorse.

DID YOU KNOW—

That a correctly balanced wheel, when locked up, ought to stop spinning in such a position that the tire valve cap is at the lowest point? A wheel and its tire should be so perfectly balanced that the valve cap will just slightly unbalance it.

That a foggy night is a good time to test the headlights? Under such weather conditions the rays cast by the headlights will be plainly marked, showing immediately whether they are properly focused. The motorist will often find that his headlights are neither focused correctly nor aimed in unison. Both headlights may shoot up in the air, one glancing off at a different angle than the other. Incidentally, one motorist who will often find that his headlights are not properly focused, is the one who gives the tourist a chance to run at a comfortably fast speed, yet retaining the motorist from indulging in these higher speeds that are neither necessary nor, as yet, safe.

THIS AND THAT

Anybody thinking in terms of improved roads, better cars and more experienced drivers, a rule of speed in excess of 40 miles an hour is not, legally, reckless driving. This gives the tourist a chance to run at a comfortably fast speed, yet retaining the motorist from indulging in these higher speeds that are neither necessary nor, as yet, safe.
